Pennsylvania Orders Poultry Quarantine

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has issued a quarantine that temporarily suspends poultry exhibitions and transportation of live birds to markets and auctions.

Shipments of birds to recognized slaughter establishments are not affected by the order.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff ordered the quarantine after a routine surveillance found evidence that a Montgomery County turkey flock had been exposed to avian influenza. Increased surveillance of poultry operations led to discovery of avian influenza virus in a chicken at a Philadelphia live-bird market.

Routine monitoring of birds at the Pennsylvania Farm Show revealed that a flock of exhibition

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.)—The annual Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs held its annual banquet Friday night last week with about 1,500 people crowded in the ballroom. Introduction of the 40 local queens became the first order of business. Later, various entertainment groups performed in anticipation of bookings from local fair representatives.

In the awards ceremony, former representative Samuel Hayes was honored in appreciation for his work for the Association and especially for his association with the Huntingdon County Fair. Eugene Shore, editor emeritus of the Huntingdon Daily News, was named the Communicator of the Year for his extensive coverage of the fair during a 60-year period.

The Coveted Fair Person of the Year Award went to Gilbert Koppenhaver for his service to the Gratz Fair.

The next day at the Saturday luncheon, Amy Anderson, representing the Green County Fair, was crowned the 1993 State Fair Queen. Amy is the 17-year-old

Spring Bedding Market Surges At Produce Auctions

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Spring bedding plants have more than doubled in volume on the produce auction block from 1991-1992, and show almost no sign of stopping, according to several auction managers Tuesday at the 1993 Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference and Trade Show.

Paul Leinbach, manager of Leinbach's Produce Auction in Shippensburg, told Lancaster Farming that the volume of bedding plants doubled in 1992 over 1991 levels. Other managers, who spoke at the panel, also noted the huge increase.

The panel, moderated by Don Robinson, adult farmer instructor with the Eastern Lancaster County School District, included Lloyd Horst, manager, and Elmer Stoltzfus, president of Leola Produce Auction, Leola; Herb Gebely, manager of Kutztown Produce Auction. Kutztown; Neil Courtney, manager of Buffalo Valley Produce Auction, Mifflinburg; and Leinbach.

Panel members pointed out to growers about the need to be "concerned about quality and attractive packaging of product — this is the determining factor," said Lloyd Horst of Leola. "The quality of the product itself will set the stage of return."

$3 million sales

Horst, whose company posted sales of more than $3 million last year, said the Leola-based auction

Nutrient Management Re-introduced In Legislature

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As expected, state Rep. Jeffrey Coy, D-Shippensburg, on Wednesday introduced nutrient management legislation which was passed by the House Rules Committee, the only functioning committee in the House this past week.

The state House Democrats, locked over the issue of business expenses, had yet to decide committee assignments except for the Rules Committee.

Coy's proposed legislation, too early in the stage to earn a bill number, is virtually a reissue of last session's Senate Bill 1444.

That bill quickly became a widely supported nutrient management law proposal, but failed — because of priority and time contraints — to make it to the floor of the Senate for a vote before the previous Senate adjourned.

There are more than 50 sponsors for Coy's nutrient management proposal.

According to a Wednesday news release from Coy, "The last bill (S.B.1444) was the end result of months and years of work between the Legislature and the agriculture and environmental communities. We feel that, in this bill, again we've included the best ideas of the major agriculture and environmental organizations in Pennsylvania."

Steve Crawford, assistant to Cole and former executive director of the House Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, reiterated his boss's words during a telephone interview on Thursday, saying it was re-introduced because, "We felt obliged to the organizations which helped form this legislation over the past years."

Simply, the proposal would attempt to address all sources and potential sources of water pollu-

Sire Power Has Turnaround Year

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.)—Sire Power, a member owned dairy breeding organization with headquarters in Tunkhannock, reported a turnaround year in both sales and profits at their annual meeting Wednesday. President Gary Rickard reported a net profit of $306,899 for the year ending September 30, 1992. This contrasts with a net loss in 1991 of $555,272.

"We are again reminded by our financial statement of the volatile nature of the business in which we are engaged," Rickard said. "Our income in the past three years has shown significant fluctuations. In 1990 revenues exceeded $15,000,000 for the first time in the history of Sire Power. Then in 1991 revenues were down almost $1,900,000, and last year they were up again by 1,270,00."

Rickard said the fluctuations are made because of two major factors. The first major influence is the composition of the bull lineup at a particular point in time. The inclusion of one individual sire with the proper credentials can generate a million or more in revenues. The second major influence is the dairy economy world wide. Foreign sales have been a significant con-

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, January 27, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers was slow. In some instances product was being offered at increasingly competitive price levels in an attempt to stimulate additional interest. Live supplies were generally adequate. Sizes were mostly desirable. Processing schedules were heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 49 to 60 cents. Trade sentiment was barely steady. Parts interest waned also with the breasts still in the best position.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, January 27, 1993

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady in the Northeast and Midwest, steady to fully steady in the South and on the West Coast. Demand ranged light to instances good, mostly fair, and best where featured. Supplies were generally adequate with occasional shortages in the South. Extra eggs continued to be held with confidence except for some surplus jumbos offered in the Midwest at steady to lower prices. Breaking stock supplies were closely balanced to adequate, and prices were unchanged to higher. Light type hen markets were steady to firm, mostly fully steady with offerings usually short to instances balanced with the moderate to good demand.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, January 27, 1993

Trucklot buying interest was quite irregular. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were in close balance with trade needs with some buyer inquiries for late week deliveries not booked. Trading was reported at higher prices than prior day. Line run breasts were very tight. Supplies to cover regular business was adequate but very little additional product was available. Shipper asking prices trended higher. All dark meat items were adequate for a fair demand and prices were generally steady. Wings continued to be fully adequate to ample for the very light and cautious buying interest. Prices trended lower.

Our Reputation is Growing In Your Fields.

Attention Tobacco Farmers

Do you want the freedom of choice to sell your tobacco where you want to?

Golden Leaf Tobacco Co. feels that as American farmers you should have a choice to sell your tobacco any place that you want; whether it by auction or private sale. We strongly support that right.

As a major buyer in Lancaster County for over ten years, we have gained the respect of major tobacco companies through out the U.S. Through that respect, we are representing several of them in this county.

Before Christmas of this year we were the largest buyer on the auction system. On December 21, 1992, 267,713 pounds were sold at auction. Golden Leaf Tobacco Co. purchased 196,992 pounds from that facility. There should be little doubt in the farm community that we have tried to support the auction system faithfully.

Since that time, new management has demanded that all private sales stop. Why? We call it greed.

We would still like to buy tobacco both at auction and private sale but it must be done in a more peaceful manner. We believe it is the desire of Lancaster tobacco farmers to have both systems.

Please call our office Monday thru Friday 8 A.M. until 4 P.M. and give us your opinion.

Sincerely,
Mac Baily; President
Golden Leaf Tobacco Co.

OPINION

Work Together To Prevent Outbreak Of Dreaded Disease

Avian Influenza has the poultry industry in Pennsylvania and neighboring states on the defensive again. Outbreaks of the highly pathogenic disease resulted in losses of more than $100 million in 1983 and 1986.

Last month, blood samples from a Montgomery County turkey flock were found to be Avian Influenza seropositive by New Bolton Center. Subsequent examination of these samples by National Veterinary Services Laboratory revealed the influenza type to be H5N2. While all birds on the farm appear to be clinically healthy at this time, the farm and all poultry thereon are under quarantine.

Discovery of the H5N2 influenza antibody prompted Pennsylvania and neighboring states to upgrade surveillance. This surveillance discovered the virus in a chicken in a Philadelphia market and in several New York City markets. And the H5N2 antibody was also found in a flock of exhibition birds at the Farm Show.

Therefore, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has issued a quarantine that temporarily suspends poultry exhibitions and transportation of live birds to markets and auctions. Birds may be transported to recognized slaughter establishments without restriction.

To date, the discovery is called a potential Avian Influenza outbreak. But in order to avoid that outbreak, the Pennsylvania poultry industry must begin immediately to submit regular Avian Influenza surveillance samples promptly to diagnostic laboratories. One hundred percent participation in the surveillance program is necessary so the industry can monitor and detect the introduction of virus into commercial poultry flocks.

In addition, everyone must maintain strict bio-security measures. Proper dead bird disposal and manure management are also especially important at this time. With everyone working together, the industry has a better chance to prevent an outbreak of this dreaded disease.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Fight Avian Influenza

Avian influenza (AI) has been diagnosed in Pennsylvania. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has issued a quarantine order that suspends, until further notice, all exhibitions of poultry in Pennsylvania and transportation of live birds to animal markets and their sale.

Every poultry producer should increase their biosecurity measures to minimize the spread of AI. These measures include:

- Do not visit other poultry farms.
- No visitors to your poultry farm.
- Lock all buildings all the times (even when you are in them.)
- Restrict movement of all vehicles on your farm.
- Do not loan or borrow farm equipment.
- Bring onto your farm only items that may be cleaned and disinfected.
- Always take a shower and wash hair when arriving home from a meeting with other poultry farmers.
- Keep a pair of boots for use in only your poultry house.
- Avoid contact with all wild birds and waterfowl.
- Report rise in mortality or sickness in your flock to your service person immediately.

By taking precautions now, we will make it very difficult for AI to become established in our poultry flocks.

To Reserve Ag Progress Days Dates

The 1993 version of Penn State's Ag Progress Days will be held August 17 to 19, 1993 at Rockspring.

This large outdoor show features the latest in research being conducted by the College of Agricultural Sciences, machinery demonstrations, soil and water conservation tours, commercial exhibits and antique farm and home implements.

Mark your calendars now and plan to attend Ag Progress Days this year. Admission and parking is free!

To Prevent Farmer's Lung

Farmer's lung disease is a respiratory illness that may develop in agricultural workers who inhale dust containing bacterial or fungal proteins. Typically it occurs in farmers who handle silage or compost in a confined space.

Symptoms include chest tightness, fever, muscle aches, chills, shortness of breadth, and sometimes dry cough. Symptoms may develop slowly, several hours after exposure. In the absence of repeated exposure, the symptoms often disappear.

Continued exposure may cause loss of normal respiratory function and permanent damage.

The key to preventing farmer's lung disease is to avoid prolonged work with silage or compost in unventilated areas. If that is not feasible, wear personal protective equipment.

The minimum respiratory protection would be a toxic dust mask that prevents inhalation of organic particulates. If you develop symptoms, seek medical attention and tell the doctor to consider farmer's lung as the problem.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HELPING THE DEVIL
January 31, 1993

Background Scipture:
Ephesians 4.
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 12:12-27.

The writer of Ephesians admonishes us: ". . . and give no opportunity to the devil . . ." (4:27).

That reminds me of the song Phil Harris used to sing about a man treed by a bear: "Lord, if you can't help me, please don't help that bear"! The bear has a lot going for him and doesn't need any help when it's man vs. bear. So does the devil. The last thing in the world a Christian should do is to help the devil, to give him an "opportunity". But, if my experience is reasonably representative, the devil is getting a lot of help from many of those who ought to "give no opportunity to the devil".

P.R. FOR THE DEVIL

Who are they? In my experience, they are the very ones who spend so much of their time and effort in warning others about the devil. He has all the publicity he needs in this world without Christians giving him even more. It is ironic that some Christians are often the ones who make others so conscious of the devil. They talk about him incessantly, they warn others about him, and they look carefully into the words and deeds of others so as to discern whether or not the devil might not be operative there. Some Christians, it seems, give more attention to and spend more time talking about the devil than they do God. My question: why give him any attention or time at all? Given the opportunity, I'd rather, to paraphrase Paul, speak "five words" for God than "ten thousand" against the devil.

Just as at various times in human history, Christians have become obsessed with finding and punishing those they judged to be "witches", so some Christians today are equally engrossed in identifying those whom they believe to be in league with or influenced by the devil. Jesus also was targeted by the witch hunters of his day and one of his sharpest responses was a rejoinder to the charge that his works were in league with the devil: "If I cast out demons by Beelzelbub, by whom do your sons cast them out? . . . every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven" (Matt. 12:22-37). To brand someone as being in league with the devil, either consciously or unconsciously, puts ut in danger of committing blasphemy. Thus, Ephesians warns us, ". . . do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God" (4:30).

DEVIL-SLEUTHING

Those who act as self-appointed devil-detectives further "grieve the Holy Spirit of God" by dividing what Ephesians tells us God wills to be one: "There is one body and one spirit, just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all" (4:4-7). Whether in the middle ages, colonial times or our present age, witch-hunting and devil-sleuthing always divides the church. One cannot focus on the devil and still "attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the stature of the fullness of Christ" (4:13). Nor can we recognize, as Ephesians put it, that "we are members one of another" (4:25).

I have never known anyone deeply concerned about the devil who was also very humble and loving. In fact, just the opposite: censorious, judgmental, and self-righteous. What a contrast with the prescription in Ephesians 4:31: "Let all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and slander be put away from you, with all malice, and be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you".

Eastern Hires Siglow

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers has hired John Siglow for the position of operations manager.

His responsibilities will include the sale of member milk to customers and overseeing quality assurance and transportation.

"I look forward to contributing to the continued success of Eastern as I focus on service to customers, quality assurance and the efficiencies of handling milk," Siglow said.

Siglow was first introduced to the dairy industry as a milk hauler financing his way through college at Youngstown State University where he received a bachelor's degree in marketing.

Upon graduation, Siglow began a 17-year career with Milk Marketing, Inc., a dairy cooperative based in Strongsville, Ohio.

Orginally hired as a field representative in Indiana, Siglow moved up through the ranks gaining extensive experience in all facets of cooperative business. Most recently, Siglow served three years as general manager of the Producer's Equalization Agency, a dairy farmer pricing organization similar to RCMA.

Siglow and his family are currently living in Brunswick, Ohio, but will be relocating to Syracuse this spring.

Eastern, a Syracuse-based dairy co-op, operates in a nine-state area with 3,100 member farm families. The majority of those member-owners are located in New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Delaware.

Farming Future Conference To Feature Diverse Workshops

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) will present the second annual Farming for the Future Conference on Feb. 5-6 at the Nittany Lion Inn on the campus of Penn State University.

Keynote speaker for the event will be Marty Strange, program director and co-founder of the Center for Rural Affairs (CRA), an independent nonprofit organization dedicated to research, education, and action for rural Americans.

The CRA is located in Walthill and Hartington, Neb. and has been a driving force for change in American agriculture for the past 20 years.

Strange is the author of "Family Farming: A New Economic Vision," published in 1988 and hailed as a landmark work in the areas of agricultural analysis and economics.

This year's conference will feature a number of speakers on rotational grazing and pasture systems. Roger Wentling, a consultant who has helped more than 150 farmers set up grazing systems, will discuss grazing in Pennsylvania and show slides of sustainable practices in use throughout the state. Allan Nation, editor of the monthly "Stockman Grass Farmer," will talk about grassland farming on a national and international scale.

Roman Stoltzfoos operates a 100-cow dairy and markets 50,000 certified organic chickens and turkeys per year from his Lancaster County farm. He utilizes composting, rotational grazing, and a number of other sustainable practices. Garry and Linda VanDeWeert are Bradford County dairy farmers noted for their effective use of rotational grazing and various other cost-cutting practices. Both will describe their operations in detail.

Jodi and Ron Snyder have a 70-sow operation on pasture, producing specialty pork products for the organic market. They also raise sheep, poultry, vegetables, and fruit. They will talk specifically about their free-range feeding systems, fencing, and marketing of livestock products. Several other farmers who use rotational grazing will speak on other panels as well.

Row crop and vegetable producers will be interested in learning about weed control using cultivation from farmers Melvin Gelsinger (300 acres of grain) and David Moore (commercial vegetable producer). The use of rye as a living mulch in tomatoes will be presented by Tom Jurchak and weed control using "systems and steel" as practiced by David Stern, a long-time organic vegetable producer in New York state, will be featured in a workshop on Sustainable Vegetable Production Systems.

A panel of commercial vegetable growers will discuss "Alternative Vegetable Field Management Systems," comparing tillage, green manures, and permanent beds and offering their evaluations of methods they have tried. "Building Soil Through Tillage" is another workshop topic with fallows, rotation of tillage practices and fields, and green manures to be discussed by farmers utilizing those practices.

Forest land owners will be interested in learning about Pennsylvania's Forest Stewardship Program, a new program designed to protect and enhance Pennsylvania woodlands. The program offers cost share funds to woodland owners who institute various practices to improve the quality of their woods.

Several workshops will deal with farm composting, including one on farm composting basics, one on alternative systems for making on-farm compost, and one on farm utilization of organic materials.

A workshop on sustainable fruit production will address a variety of alternatives for reducing chemical use in strawberries, raspberries, and blueberries. In addition, organic fruit tree production will be discussed by a grower from New York.

A number of on-farm demonstrations were undertaken last summer by PASA with funding from the American Farmland Trust. There will be a presentation of observations and results from these trials, which include two experiments in controlling blight in tomatoes, two experiments in reducing starter fertilizer rates in corn, two rotational grazing research projects, and several other on-farm experiments.

Cover cropping will be addressed by Dr. Marianne Sarrantonio of the Rodale Institute, author of two books on the subject. She will talk about the use of cover crops to serve multiple functions in various farming systems. In addition, Ron Gargasz will discuss his use of cover crops in small grain production as a way to build soils.

Policy issues affecting sustainable agriculture will be addressed in several workshops: "Organic Foods Production Act and Certification" and likely impacts on Pennsylvania producers, "Farmland Preservation" through the use of easements and/or zoning, and "Policy Issues for Organic and Sustainable Agriculture." In this latter workshop, Marty Strange will present a national outlook on the importance of the 1995 Farm Bill, Cheryl Cook of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union will present a Pennsylvania perspective, and Lamonte Garber of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation will discuss pending legislation in the area of nutrient management.

Closing keynote speaker will be Cornelia Flora Butler, a rural sociologist, professor and head of the department of sociology at Virginia Tech. She has worked in the areas of farming systems research, rural economic development, rural women's issues, and the links between the health of communities and sustainable agriculture.

For further information about PASA and/or conference registration, contact PASA, P.O. Box 316, Millheim, PA 16854 (814) 349-9856.

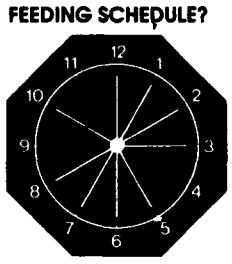
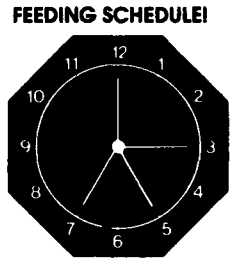
DRAG AUGER FEEDING SCHEDULE?



BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN FEEDER FEEDING SCHEDULE!



How often do your feeders run in a day? It is generally necessary to operate drag auger feeders as many as eight or more times per day because of limited feeding space and the small quantity of feed presented at one time That creates tremendous competition for the little feed available. The result of this competition is damaged eggs... from feet, toes and collisions. Big Dutchman chain feeders can feed your flock by running as few as three or four times a day, with little competition for feed, a calmer flock and fewer cracks and checks

IF YOU ARE...
FORCED TO FEED
more than four times a day or during peak laying periods, call 911 for your egg casualties or. . . call (717) 393-5807 for information on how our chain feeder pampers your product. . . from cage to carton

Nutrient Management

tion by nutrification, not only as it relates to agriculture; would be within the purview of the State Conservation Commission, an established board created to oversee the multi-government agency work done via county conservation districts; establish a regulatory review and advisory council to the commission; set up a system whereby farmers whose operations depend on high density livestock situations must establish a reasonable and workable means of controlling nutrients; and create a certification program for those who would create and approve such plans.

The proposal would also override local municipal ordinances and policies covering nutrient management.

Though the actual document is more specific, details have been reported previously in Lancaster Farming.

However, within the past three weeks, a group which was activated in 1991 in response to an unpopular version of nutrient management long since replaced, has announced its own version of nutrient management.

The Lancaster-based group is called Family Farm Movement and was organized and is headed by Allen Weicksel, of Peach Bottom. It is apparently not a formally established organization.

The proposal from the FFM is to set up additional levels of state and local government via commissions and full-time administrative services to establish a program whereby farmers who volunteer to create and operate their farms according to an operational plan (not just manure management) would be free from normal pollution prosecution.

The FFM proposal would allow local nutrient management ordinances. It does not address any other sources of nutrients.

And, any farmer not volunteering for the FFM program would be on his own and subject to full redress according to existing water protection laws.

The FFM proposal, as of presstime, had not yet received any acknowledgement of support from any political representative.

However, in newspaper reports published this week announcing the Coy-sponsored legislation, Weicksel has been quoted as saying that the House is attempting to "ram" the nutrient management legislation through without proper public review.

Weicksel's vocal objections and allegations have caused some consternation for many close to the Coy proposal, especially those within statewide agricultural organizations which have been active in forming the Coy proposal.

While many did support a charge of "ramming through" last session because of a last-minute effort to get it passed, Crawford and many others involved with the process said they don't understand the basis of Weicksel's charges — especially since the proposal has just started its entire review process through the state Legislature.

"The process is above board," Crawford said, in response to criticizm of Coy, attributed to Weicksel in published reports.

"The support (for the nutrient management bill) is broad. The intention is to move with deliberate speed to get this past the House, the Senate and on the governor's desk.

"Again, we have been at the counsel of the agricultural and environmental organizations.

"Anything that the ag and environmental people can agree to will be received favorably by Rep. Coy," Crawford said. "It's that simple."

Farm Credit

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA announces the addition of loan officer Gene Barrett to the Towanda branch office team.

Barrett began his career with Farm Credit on November 16, 1992. For the last two months, Barrett has been in training and orientation at the headquarters office in Lewisburg and also at the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore District office.

Barrett is a graduate of the University of Wyoming with a bachelor's in agricultural economics. Before joining the United States Air Force, he was employed by Taylor Beef and Formula One Feeds, Inc. In addition to his employment with Farm Credit, he serves as personnel officer in the Pennsylvania Air National Guard.

Barrett was born and raised on his family's Holstein dairy farm in Bradford County.

$3.9 Million For Poultry, Egg Promotions

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. — Approximately $3.943 million in matching funds for the branded promotion of U.S. poultry and egg food products in foreign markets are being offered to any qualifying company by the USA Poultry & Egg Export Council (USAPEEC).

The promotional funding is part of the Market Promotion Program (MPP), which was established by Congress as part of the 1990 Farm Bill. This program was previously known as the Targeted Export Assistance (TEA) Program as originally created in the 1985 Farm Bill.

"This program allows any U.S. company to use branded advertising to promote the sale of U.S. poultry or egg food products in an approved foreign country under the regulations of the program," said James H. Sumner, president of USAPEEC.

"Foreign-based companies may also participate in the program as long as the product or products being promoted are of 100 percent U.S. origin," Sumner said.

Approved promotions must be conducted between April 1, 1993 and March 31, 1994.

The deadline to make application to the Export Council is at the end of the business day on February 19, 1993. Companies are encouraged to submit applications as soon as possible to minimize delays in approval.

Funding for the program is contingent upon approval of a specific marketing plan by both the Council and the Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which administers the program.

Funding is available in increments of $7,500. Although there is no limit to the amount of funds a company can request, allocations are based "on a reasonable ratio of funds requested per pound of product exported," Sumner said. Foreign-based participants will be required to submit copies of export certificates verifying that the products promoted are of U.S. origin.

Funding is available for the promotion of any U.S. poultry or egg products, including chicken, turkey, duck, cornish game hens, quail, and all further processed poultry and egg products.

For the FY '93 program, the FAS has established funding ceilings limiting the amount of matching funds available for specific countries. The funding ceiling levels are:

In fiscal year 1993, USAPEEC will receive $7.1 million in MPP funds to invest in expanding U.S. poultry and egg food markets. Approximately $3.16 million of those funds will be used to conduct generic promotional activities in the above-listed countries and regions. The purpose of these generic activities is to serve as a catalyst for future branded promotions of U.S. poultry and egg products in these foreign markets.

In fiscal year 1992, $3.725 million in matching promotion funds under the MPP were made available to 20 U.S. companies to promote branded poultry and egg food products in 16 countries.

ROHRER'S

QUALITY SEEDS FOR FARM & GARDEN - OVER 75 YEARS

Discover AMERICA'S Alfalfa AGGRESSOR

The extra cut variety

Aggressor withstands aggressive cutting, which is exactly what alfalfa growers pushing their varieties to the limit require for more yield and quality. A research study started in 1989 measured variety persistence under aggressive cutting schedules. Each variety was cut five times per year in this North Central study.

Aggressor came out on top!

Percent stand survival

AGGRESSOR	60%
FUNKS 2841	40%
PIONEER BRAND 5364	35%
VERNAL	35%
FORTRESS	15%

Frequent cutting requires high disease and insect resistance — Aggressor delivers:

- HR Phytophthora
- HR Bacterial wilt
- R Verticillium wilt
- HR Fusarium wilt
- HR Anthracnose
- R Leafhopper yellowing

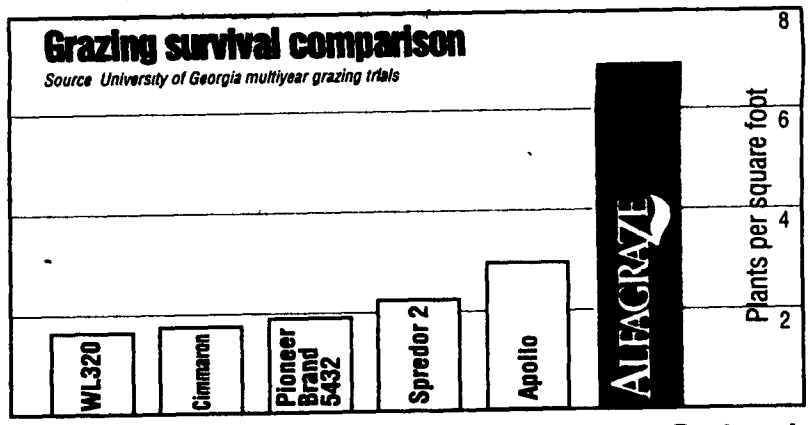
Discover AMERICA'S Alfalfa ALFAGRAZE

Hay it and graze it!



■ 12 years of development and testing by Dr. Joe Bouton at the University of Georgia prove Alfagraze survives grazing better than any alfalfa variety. And because Alfagraze features upright growth, you have the choice to cut it for hay or graze it.

■ Alfagraze lowers feed costs...
"While grazing our 120-cow dairy herd on Alfagraze, we reduced our daily feed costs from $3 a cow to $1.50. Over the next two years we plan to seed another 50 acres of Alfagraze."
— Dane Mercer, Dairyman, Sweetwater, TN

■ Alfagraze yields like conventional hay varieties.

■ Alfagraze has exceptional winterhardiness.

■ Alfagraze is very leafy with fine stems.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — There will be only 95,000 dairy farms in the United States by the year 2005, according to Dave Galton, a Cornell University animal science department researcher.

Galton and other top dairy researchers from land-grant universities in the Northeast also say:

• Chlorox brand chlorine bleach is perhaps the best and most inexpensive pre-dip and post-dip solution around, though the National Mastitis Council will not endorse its use because the company has never conducted an official trial. However, Cornell has been using it on its research herds for years.

• To stay competitive, dairy operations need to experience a 10 percent growth per year.

• Strong profits in dairying are only being currently realized by those operations milking at least 400 cows.

• Fast-track Holsteins are on their way. Research being validated by Cornell shows that Holsteins can be raised and bred to freshen with a first calf at 20 to 22 months of age without hurting or stressing the animal in any way.

• No matter how he selects sires for his dairy herd, a dairyman using artifical insemination can only see his herd's genetics improve over time, according to the direction being pursued by the studs. (For more efficient genetic gain, use proven bulls on the heifers, the young sires on the cows.)

Though some the experts' advice won't be found written down anywhere else, it represents a plethora of latest findings, opinions and tips for survival in the dairy production business offered through a series of two-day Northeast Winter Dairy Management Schools.

The schools were held locally and in several states during the past two weeks.

Sponsored by Cornell and Penn State universities, and the universities of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont, there were 10 of the two-day schools were offered throughout the Northeast states, including four in Pennsylvania.

The school setting provided participants with first-hand insights into the opinions and views of those whose job it is to analyze dairy research data, instead of having the information filtered through news releases and extension agents.

It also provided a forum for laymen to press for further explanation about the experts' interpretations and findings on dairy research; allowed researchers to clarify any misunderstandings about research results; and to bring perspective to the vast and sometimes conflicting information.

While the educational programs are sponsored by the dairy extension faculties of nine Northeast universities, they aren't free.

Normal extension service activities provide a grass-roots clearinghouse for academic findings by the land grant universities.

The winter dairy management schools go even further, and the depth of information is practically on par with college classroom instruction.

More specialized than most any other extension-sponsored program, the intensity of the information and the level of explanation offered also carried a base price of $40 per person for materials, hall rentals and coffee breaks.

Each participant was given a book of 24 research papers and two papers for panel discussion: 12 papers presented by the authors to participants of the west program; 12 presented by authors to the East participants; and the talking recommendation papers for each program's panel discussion.

Additional, but optional, costs were for meals provided and for overnight accomodations.

At the West schools, the topics covered ranged from causes and treatments for two organisms which cause calf scours and are transmissable to humans and most farm animals; genetic progress; profitability; mineral nutrition recommendations; fertility in postpartum cows; fast-track heifer raising in Holsteins for optimum profit and performance; controlling feed costs, to using Dairy Herd Improvement Association records.

At the East schools, there was some overlap of topics, but different authors of different papers and different experiences made the two program presentations unique.

East sessions included topics such as annual herd check-ups, an update on the use of hormones in postpartum cows, mastitis control, performance in milking parlors, silage additives, etc.

Although the schools received little pre-publicity in Pennsylvania, the Lancaster meeting attracted more than 40 participants who traveled from several states and counties to attend.

The detail offered for each subject was great.

Alice Pell, researcher with the Cornell University Department of Animal Science, started off the morning session discussing two health-threatening, yet apparently common, farm pathogens: Giardia and Cryptosporidium parvum.

She said the importance of the two pathogens related to two issues of major concern to dairymen: environmental concerns and profitability.

The two pathogens are protozoans which are easily transmitted, can contaminate water supplies and can cause severe diarrhea in animals and humans.

A cure for Giardia is not certain nor without risk, Pell said. There is no cure for Cryptosporidium parvum, one of several identified species, but believed to be of most concern to humans.

She said Cryptosporidia are at the top of the list because of a dual affect to water quality and herd health.

Water quality issues for the dairyman consist of the nutrient escape of phosphates and nitrates, pesticides and pathogens, which includes bacteria, protozoans and other diseases.

Giardia attaches to the intestinal lining.

She said that although Giardia was actually identified 300 years ago, it wasn't until recently that microbiological advances have allowed easy identification.

According to Pell, Giardia "is now the most frequently identified intestinal parasite in the United States and other parts of the world," she said.

Although there has been publicity on the one-celled parasite in recent years because of incidents of campers contracting it from drinking water from mountain streams, thus the name "Beaver Fever," the pathogen is apparently wide-spread and found rarely in beavers.

It is actually found to a high degree in muskrats, which few dairy farms do not have around, especially with trapping having decreased in many areas because of increased restrictions and low fur prices.

"We ought to call is "Muskrat Fever," Pell said.

About 60 percent of infections are blamed as coming from drinking water.

Cryptosporidia were not known about for as long as Giardia. She said an American biologist first identified it in 1907. But it affects 24 animals, including man.

On the farm, the disease can be carried and transmitted by all common wild and domestic animals.

According to a table included in the paper she presented, Cryptosporidum in cattle has been shown to be transmitted to cats, other cattle, dogs, goats, humans, mice, pigs, rabbits, rats, and sheep.

Likewise, humans infected with Cryptosporidium have been shown to pass it on to cat, cattle, dogs, goats, other humans, mice, pigs, and rats.

That doesn't mean that is exactly where the limits of infection end. She said all those animals can cross-infect each other.

It may mean controlling the movements and sanitation of all animals and people going near calves.

The most common form of transmission is from feces to oral, which isn't as difficult to occur as it may seem, because it doesn't have to be direct. It can go from the feces, wash into a stream, into a swimming hole, etc.

She explained that it also can come from contaminated food and water and the question is still open to the possibility of transmission of flies or other airborne transmission.

She said that in cattle, the disease shows up in young calves. The results of several studies showed an existing infection on farms from 10 to 60 percent of all calves.

The calves get scours, aren't as thrifty, etc.

The seven-life cycled parasite is most contagious when in the oocyte, or egg, stage in the manure, and it is difficult to kill.

Studies have shown that calves with Cryptosporidium have an average age of 17 days, and can shed the oocytes from 3 to 13 days old. The concentration of the infectious stage is 10,000,000 to 100,000,000 per gram of feces when calves are shedding.

If it washes into water, it can contaminate a large supply because the parvum species, the most dangerous, only requires from one to 10 oocytes to infect another host.

She said that most people raised on a farm probably have been infected, but developed an immunity.

However, small children, the aged, those with weak or weakened immune systems, such as people with AIDS, can die from the infection.

Calves with Giardia infections are found in calves aged 3 months to 5 months, but are unlikely to show sypmtons. "Cryptosporidium is much more likely to show symptoms," she said.

Further, Pell said there is no known cure for Cryptosporidium and the cure for Giardia infections comes with a label warning that the medicine is also a carcinogen.

The only known sanitizing treatment of a calf holding area to kill Cryptosporidium is heat the manure to a temperature of 158 degrees for 10 minutes (although it does work a slightly sliding scale relationship); treatment with Hydrogen peroxide or ozone, which is messy; or use a 10 percent ammonia solution as a disinfectant.

The suggestions for management for Cryptosporidium is to reduce the risk — control or eliminate the number of cats, dogs, rodents and people near calves, isolate calves during the first weeks and quarrantine suspected animals.

Every veterinarian should be able to easily test for both pathogens, she said.

Work is currently being done at Cornell to determine the efficacy of composting calf manure as a means of destroying the pathogens, though results won't be available for some time.

Other speakers were equally specific and detailed in their presentations.

Those interested in attending one of the schools in the future should contact their local extension office and request more information.

AGA Adjusts TPE Program

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Guernsey Association Board of Directors voted at the December board meeting to adjust the requirements for the breed's Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) program. These changes are effective immediately.

Guernsey herds will now have the option of being on DHI or DHIR to participate in the TPE program.

This means TPE herds enrolled in DHI are eligible for the same awards as DHIR herds. TPE documents performance, and promotes your farm name and outstanding Guernseys.

Soybean Canopy Essential To Improving Yields

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — During a hot summer day, if you can see the sunlight hitting the ground when the soybean plants are in full canopy, "I'll guarantee you are losing yield," said John Yocum, Penn State Agronomist.

Yocum spoke to farmers and other agribusiness representatives at the Chester County Crops Day at the East Brandywine Fire Hall on Tuesday.

Yocum spoke about the management of soybeans and weed control choices available at the crops day. The Landisville Research Station manager emphasized the importance of creating a good establishment and maintaining it with a variety of weed control techniques, in addition to several new weed control choices for 1993.

Yocum said weed control is the most important factor next to stand establishment, but stressed that seed variety, inoculation, soil quality, and seed placement all work together.

First, farmers must choose a weed- and herbicide-tolerant variety. However, no variety can compensate for poor management, said Yocum. Management starts with soil type (pH of 7, ideally), proper inoculation, and seed placement. There should be about 153,000 plants per acre. Farmers must still consider seed count rather than weight. There should be 2½ seeds placed per foot of row.

Farmers who use grain drills in no-till face problems with correct seed placement, and must compensate by increasing volume of seed placed. The seed should be placed from a 1- to 1½ -inch depth, ideally. Placing seeds deeper puts them in jeopardy of germinating because the seed genetics aren't equipped to reach to the surface.

The important factor remains uniform emergence. Farmers should inspect the seed depth and placement on a regular basis when planting.

Also, using a rotary hoe to dislodge crusting and allowing the plants to come to full germination helps, according to Yocum.

Planting date can increase yields. The plants are less susceptible to frost damage than corn. However, unlike corn, if soybean plants freeze, they have to be replanted.

Studies at Penn State looked into some of highs and lows of soybean yields over the course of three years. The high obtained was 61.8 bushels per acre and the low about 50 bushels per acre.

Yocum spoke about the availability of two new products from Sandoz — Frontier (a preemergence herbicide) and Clarity (postemergence).

Also at the crops day, Dr. Greg Roth, Penn State agronomy extension specialist, spoke about corn yield management and troubleshooting corn production problems. Walter Wurser, Chester agent, presented a video on field sprayer selection, and Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester agent, spoke about checking sprayers.

Chester County 5-Acre Corn Club winners were announced. They are, first place, Nelson Beam (185.3 bushels per acre in the ear/hand harvest class with Pioneer 3245); second place, William Beam (175.9 bushels per acre in the reg. shell harvest class with Doebler's 75 XP); and third place, Ralph Petersheim (174.9 bushels per acre in the ear/hand harvest class with Pioneer 3293).

Also, the Chester County Conservation District honored C. Barclay Hoopes and Family with the 1992 Conservation Farmer of the Year Award. Hoopes operates a dairy farm in New Garden Township on approximately 282 acres. In 1990, Hoopes agreed to participate in the conservation district's Red/White Demonstration Farm Project, set up to showcase best management practices to conserve soil and improve water quality.

For me, the test of any alfalfa is how many pounds of nutrients per acre it produces.

I'm as interested as the next guy in what researchers are doing to improve the alfalfa varieties on the market today. But sometimes, I think seed companies forget that more leaves or better disease resistance by themselves don't produce more milk. The bottom line is pounds of nutrients per acre.

That's why I plant Multi-plier alfalfa from Jacques. Sure it's a multileaf and has good winter-hardiness and terrific disease resistance. But all that says to me is that Multi-plier has the potential to produce more pounds of nutrients per acre on my farm.

I look at my corn silage hybrids the same way. So I also plant a lot of 7970 from Jacques. Yes, it's big and leafy and yes, it makes a lot of grain and fits my operation. But my analysis only measures total digestible nutrients and that's what I'm looking for.

I'm open to new alfalfa varieties and silage corn hybrids, but only if they'll deliver more pounds of nutrients per acre than my Jacques® Multi-plier and 7970.

AJCC Changes Staff

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Executive Secretary Maurice Core announced two staff changes at The American Jersey Cattle Club that were effective Jan. 1.

Scott Bentley assumed the duties of special representative for The American Jersey Cattle Club and National All-Jersey Inc. In his new position he will assist with milk marketing and developing international cattle markets. Bentley will also be responsible for overseeing the field representatives of the AJCC.

Bentley joined the Jersey organization in 1985 as assistant superintendent of records and in 1987 assumed an area representative territory in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Bentley is a 1984 dairy science graduate of Iowa State University, and was the high individual in the 1983 National Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. He will reside in Reynoldsburg.

David Parkinson rejoins the AJCC staff as the area representative in the territory formerly handled by Bentley. Parkinson will coordinate the marketing of Jersey cattle and Jersey milk and promote the breed improvement programs for the Jersey association in his new area.

Parkinson brings numerous years of experience working for the AJCC. He worked for the AJCC for one and a half years as managing editor of the Jersey Journal and for eight years as an area representative for the northeast until going to Comfort Hill Jersey Farm as general manager. His most current position was with the American Guernsey Association as coordinator of Guernsey Marketing Service.

Parkinson and his wife, Sara Gaetz, and their son Geoffrey live in Reynoldsburg.

HEXAMITIASIS — A DEADLY DISEASE RETURNS

D. L. Singletary
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Hexamitiasis is a protozoan parasitic disease that affects a number of different types of poultry.

Turkeys, peafowl, ducks, and game birds (pheasants, quail, chukars) are particularly troubled with this disease. Even pigeons can be infected.

"Old timers" in the poultry industry called the disease infectious catarrhal enteritis. Strangely, chickens do not show sickness but they may carry the disease organism in their intestine and shed the parasite in their droppings.

Hexamitiasis was a major health problem for the early turkey industry. It was a particular problem for turkey producers with multi-age farms. Mortality approaching 90 percent occurred in young poults that were not treated or properly managed. Young birds, 1 to 9 weeks of age, were most seriously affected; however, clinical disease was rarely seen in adult birds.

In recent years, hexamitiasis had all but disappeared in the commercial poultry industry. Its departure is believed due to the improvement in management practices and to the introduction of antiblackhead and nitrofuran drugs.

For all practical purposes, hexamitiasis was no longer a major health problem in commercial turkeys. Poultry diagnostic laboratories seldom saw the disease. Only 10 cases were reported in 1986 in the entire United States. No cases were reported in Pennsylvania turkeys in 1990 or 1991.

Recently the Pennsylvania Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory had a case of turkey hexamitiasis. Why the sudden reappearance of a disease that has been rarely seen? The most likely explanation is the government's removal of drugs that were used to prevent and treat blackhead (a disease also caused by a protozoan parasite). These products (a variety of antiblackhead and nitrofuran drugs) effectively controlled blackhead and as a secondary benefit controlled hexamitiasis as well. The poultry industry may expect to see more hexamitiasis in the future.

In my next article, the symptoms, lesions, and control of hexamitiasis will be discussed. This discussion will help poultrymen recognize the disease if it should occur in one of their poultry flocks.

Regional Vegetable Meeting Set

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — A regional Schuylkill County vegetable meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 9, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Pine View Acres, Chamberlain Avenue, Pottsville.

Speakers for the meeting will be Dr. Shelby Fleischer, Penn State extension entomologist; Dr. Peter Ferretti, Penn State extension vegetable specialist; Dr. Michael Orzolek, Penn State extension vegetable specialist; and Dr. Alan MacNab, Penn State extension vegetable pathologist; and George Perry, horticulture agent.

Topics discussed will include insect control on vegetables - in-depth presentation on three major vegetables, disease identification/integrated disease management for vegetables, herbicides and their safeness on vegetables, and the Chemsweep Program.

All vegetable growers are invited to attend this meeting sponsored by the Schuylkill County extension. Pesticide update credits will be issued at this meeting. Registration is required by Monday, February 1.

For additional information, contact George P. Perry Jr., county agent/horticultue, Schuylkill County Extension Office, P.O. Box 250, Schuylkill Haven, PA 17972-0250, (717) 385-3431.

Dairy Outlook For 1993

BOB YONKERS
Assistant Prof., Ag Economics
Penn State University

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — For the dairy industry, 1992 was a change from the conditions of 1991.

Slower milk production growth, coupled with some increased demand, resulted in relatively strong milk prices in the first half of the year. Milk prices remained at or above year-earlier levels through October.

Milk Production and Farm Prices

Expect milk production to grow about 2 percent in the first half of 1993, driven by a slower decline in cow numbers and continued increases, albeit smaller ones, in output per cow.

I look for this growth to slow in the second half of 1993, with total milk production for the year up one to one-and-a-quarter percent.

Such growth in milk production, coupled with sluggish commercial disappearance, will put a lot of downward pressure on milk prices.

My outlook for price has the M-W (or its replacement) falling over $2 from the 1992 peak of $12.59 (at 3.5% BF), to around $10.40 during March and April; still well above support, but I see the M-W averaging nearly $1 lower in the first half of 1993 than for the same period in 1992.

For the second half of 1993, I see a different story. Sluggish milk production coupled with (I hope) more evidence of growth in the U.S. economy stimulating demand, will result in strengthening milk prices.

I look for the M-W to peak by October at $12.60, about the same peak as in 1992, with second half milk prices averaging slightly above the same period in 1992.

Under my scenario, the average annual all-milk price in 1993 will be nearly 50 cents lower than 1992.

Consumption and Trade

Domestic demands for dairy products were unsteady in 1992, but overall are expected to increase about 2 percent.

Of some concern has been the sluggish demand for fluid dairy products. Increased sales for cheese and nonfat dry milk accounted for most of the commercial sales gains in 1992.

Retail prices for dairy products are expected to ease in the first half of 1993 as farm milk prices decline. Favorable retail prices should encourage growth in commercial sale; the big question is whether or not the economic recovery in the U.S. will support increased buying by consumers.

It is hoped that the new Clinton Administration will lead to some economic optimism early in the year.

Another plus for the dairy industry recently has been the increased use of the Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP).

This government program subsidizes the export of dairy products, and 1992 DEIP contracts accounted for nearly 2 billion pounds of milk.

One reason for DEIP interest has been lower milk production in the European Community and the emerging democracies of Eastern Europe.

Interest in this program will likely remain high in 1993 as U.S. traders have become accustomed to the program. However, most trades to developing countries hinge on their ability to obtain credit.

Factors Influencing The Outlook

Some keys to this outlook include the fact that I do not believe that forage quality and quantity across the country are as poor as some claim; below average for sure, but not poor.

I do expect lower grain prices, especially for corn, to keep the milk:feed price ratio from falling too far.

I also expect a change in the CCC butter purchase price (with a corresponding change in the nonfat dry milk price), which will stimulate increased export sales of butter and butteroil.

I do not look for any major changes in dairy policy, with the exception that there is an outside chance that legislation will pass increasing the support price 50 cents.

However, this would not go into effect in time to prevent the M-W falling below $10.60, but may result in higher milk production than I forecast in the second half of 1993, and therefore an M-W peak below $12.50.

Finally, I am tired of hearing hints every year that bST will become commercially available "next year," so my standard comment has become "even if bST is approved next year, the effect of this technology on milk production and prices will be very small in the first year of use."

Grange Leader's Conference Held

UNIONVILLE, Md. — Nearly 70 Grange leaders attended the Maryland State Grange Leader's Conference held recently here at the Linganore United Methodist Church.

Leaders from around the state participated in workshops led by the state master, state lecturer, state secretary, state women's activities chairman, state youth and junior leaders, and state deaf activities chairman.

Dates for upcoming events were set and leaders were apprised of programs for the coming year. The following 1993 dates and events were annouced:

- State Youth Night, March 27.
- Mid Atlantic Lecturers Conference, Painted Post, New York, May 14 - 16.
- State Grange Picnic, July 25.
- State Talent Contest (including juniors), August 14.
- State Grange Junior/Youth/-Family Camp, Wolfe Farm, St. Mary's County, September 24 - 26.

Like all fertilizers, manure application rates affect the quality and yield of your crops. That's why your White-New Idea dealer can help you set up your New Idea spreader to apply manure at a rate that matches your soil nutrient needs.

With commercial potash costs of $150 per ton, using manure could mean a $15 per acre savings. In fact, applying manure at a rate of three to six tons per acre—instead of the 20-ton rate commonly used today—can save you $7500 on just 500 acres.

So test your manure and soil. Then see your White-New Idea dealer for all the manure application rate details.

DHIA Convention Set For March

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association's fifth annual meeting of the corporation is set for March 19 and 20 at the Radisson Hotel Pittsburgh, located in Monroeville.

The Radisson is only 20 minutes from the heart of Pittsburgh, located directly adjacent to the Monroeville Mall and Greater Pittsburgh Expo Mart.

All Pa.DHIA members are invited to attend the informational meeting.

Last year was the first time Pa.DHIA traveled outside of State College for the corporate meeting. Again this year, we plan to travel to meet the members.

Last March, we had a favorable turnout of 250 people including members, Pa.DHIA leadership, and representatives of the dairy industry. An increase in attendance is expected this year.

Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland counties have agreed to act as host for this year's meeting. With the counties' assistance, plans are to feature a trade show which is to parallel the meeting, a spouse's program offering craft ideas (chaired by Mrs. Adam Derr), an awards banquet focusing on this year's success, a Hawaiian dinner theatre for your entertainment, and a meeting that will focus on sharing ideas and building commitment as an association.

The program allows for opportunities to learn more about the association, a chance for the association to understand member needs and concerns, and a chance to recognize the past year's accomplishments and the coming year's goals, as well as time to socialize with other members and representatives of the dairy industry.

Within the next month, members should be recciving invitations to the meeting. Plan now to attend to present your ideas for association.

While most lenders have barely scratched the surface in agriculture, we've gone a bit further.

Fact is, you can explain your needs to some bankers until you're blue in the face and chances are they still won't understand. Farm Credit loan officers, on the other hand, have been through the most comprehensive ag lending training program in the nation. And many have farm backgrounds themselves.

They can approve loans for just about any farm need from land to equipment. And since a committee isn't necessary for most decisions, loan approval is easy and fast.

Stop by and talk with your Farm Credit loan officer.

ADADC Plans Meeting

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — "ADADC: Your Winning Team" will kick-off the 33rd American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) Annual Meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 16 at the Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, N.Y.

All dairy producers are invited to attend this meeting to find out how ADADC's game plan has worked to promote dairy products in the marketplace.

The annual meeting is to begin at 10:30 a.m. with a business meeting of the board of directors followed by a special awards luncheon at noon.

"ADADC: Your Winning Team," a review of ADADC's promotion programs, is to follow at 1:45 p.m.

Gregory D. Miller, Ph.D., director of National Dairy Council's Nutrition Research/Technical Services, is scheduled to cover national program areas in dairy nutrition, including how the dairy industry is involved in managing crises and issues such as food labeling.

Mike Leonhardt from ADADC's advertising agency, D'Arcy, Masius, Benton & Bowles, will roundout the afternoon session with an overview of beverage advertising, and how dairy farmer promotion dollars are spent on advertising to get the greatest return on investment.

Following the meeting, the 30th Anniversary New York State Dairy Princess Pageant activities will commence at 5:30 p.m. with a milk punch reception, followed by a banquet and coronation of the 1993 State Princess.

Luncheon and banquet reservations are necessary and can be made by calling ADADC at (315) 472-9143.

Annual meeting registration is free; banquet tickets for the princess pageant are $15 per person and must be prepaid.

The Sheraton Inn is located off exit 37 of the New York State Thruway.

Past Year Stable For Producers

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Members of the Mount Joy Farmers Dairy Cooperative can expect to receive a milk check this year reflecting $13.66 per hundredweight (up from $12.99 last year but less than $15.32 of two years ago), according to Marlin E. Benedict, Simon Lever and Company, accountants.

Benedict presented the financial report for the cooperative Wednesday afternoon at the cooperative's annual meeting at the Country Table Restaurant.

Benedict said 1992 proved to be a relatively stable year for producers, without a lot of large fluctuations and was "less volatile than in past years."

When the numbers were tallied at the end of fiscal year 1992 in October, the cooperative shipped more milk, at 12.1 percent or 14 million pounds, over the previous year. Total milk shipped was 136 million pounds. At year end, the cooperative included 134 patrons.

Benedict examined three years of the cooperative and compared milk check prices. In 1992, members were receiving $13.52 CWT; in October 1991, they were receiving $12.30 CWT; and in October 1990, $14.99 CWT.

Eact patron invested $6,400 in the co-op, down from $11,690 each two years ago.

The market has shown general improvement with a strong foundation base, according to the CPA. The overall strength of the coop has made it a "lean, streamlined organization, which is important to all of you" Benedict told more than 200 present.

The cooperative transports milk from members' dairy farms to Atlantic Processing, Inc. (API), represented by Royce Seifert. Seifert said API's fiscal year ends January 31, so the numbers for 1992 aren't in yet. But for fiscal year 1991, there were a total of $210 million in sales and 1.5 billion pounds of milk were shipped to two large customers, Beatrice Cheese Inc. near Allentown and Johanna Farms in Flemington, N.J. API operated at $1.4 million net margin.

Seifert said API continues to monitor the Beatrice cheese plant strike closely and told the members the industry continues to constantly change and move forward.

Earl Dehmey, co-op fieldman, said that members should beware of the lowering of the DMSCC requirements to 750,000 in the spring, and if the SCC count in the herd reaches 500,000 or more to "please get concerned about it." He also spoke about the possibility of U.S. health inspectors visiting on site and to look into monitoring detrimental antibiotic loads to keep the milk from being rejected.

In other business, the cooperative elected the following directors:

• Kenneth S. Balmer. Balmer farms 80 acres and rents 350 acres with the help of his wife and four childrten. He milks 139 cows and has 150 young stock.

• David L. Landis. Landis farms 200 acres and milks 100 cows, and maintains 80 replacement heifers with wife, Lois, and son, Darvin as helpers. He is a director of Atlantic Breeders Co-Op and member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and member of the Manheim Young Farmers.

Industry Leaders To Consider Positions On International Trade

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Representatives from most major dairy industry and other commodity and support organizations with ties to Pennsylvania met Wednesday with a representative of U.S. Sen. Harris Wofford, D-Bryn Mawr, in a room at the state agriculture building in Harrisburg to discuss positions on international trade.

The meeting was the first of what Russell Redding, special assistant and agricultural policy advisor to Wofford, said may result in an ongoing roundtable between his office and Pennsylvania agricultural organizations.

Redding had called the meeting specifically to address the federal program of trade preferences for developing nations called the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP).

As a program, the GSP is up for review this year. Depending on fact finding and testimony, it may be abolished, continued, or amended.

Currently through this program, any of 130 eligible counties may petition the United States to have all trade barriers removed, except for normal customs control.

The reason for the meeting was partially because of a nationally publicized problem with importing of Goya cheese, a cheese product used as a filler for Italian cheeses.

Representatives of the domestic producers of Goya were threatened with what they and the rest of the dairy industry claimed was unjustified dropping of tarrifs and duties on imported Goya cheeses from Argentina, Uraguay and Hungary.

It the petition would have been fully approved, as was sought by the Bush administration, it would have opened up a duty free glut of Goya into the United States, destroying the domestic competitiveness, according to spokesmen for The Dairy Trade Coalition, a group which was founded as a result of the incident.

Estimates, which had been ridiculed by some national columnists based out of Washington D.C., were that domestic losses would have been considerable: a 30-cent-per pound drop in cheese price; a 76-cent-per hundredweight loss to the price of milk; and a $1.15 billion loss from the dairy industry.

This was estimated based on the amount of milk now used to make domestic Goya cheese and the diversion of that milk for domestic cheddar cheese production.

Further, it was said that because the extra cheddar cheese would reach surplus and support level prices, the Commodity Credit Corporation would be forced to buy the surplus cheddar and farmers would be assessed an estimated 18 cents per hundredweight to pay for the purchases.

The petition for Goya has failed twice, even after receiving presidential support, because of pressure from congressmen and the dairy industry.

However, the incident points to the need for some change, according to Mario Castillo, representative of the Dairy Trade Coalition.

Discussion also ran to the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the General Agreement on Trade and Tarrifs (GATT).

Although some organizational representatives, such at Pat Wolff, legislative liason for the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, stated that their organization has established some policy on the matters (PFA's policy is for the abolishment of the GSP), most representatives did not offer such solid positions during the discussion.

The apparent bottom line consensus was for the groups to take a more aggressive role in international policy making.

Redding said that he didn't come away from the meeting with a sense that any consensus was formed.

"I'm not sure that there was (a consensus). I think there was consensus from the perspective that we need to better understand these trade agreements.

"But there was no consensus that NAFTA is good for agriculture," Redding said. "One thing clear to me, coming out of that meeting, in Congress our challenge is to inform the people who are to be directly affected. That's a big challenge.

"Likewise, all of these organizations — farm organizations or commodity groups have a challengem org or commodity groups have a challange to inform their membership."

The reason for calling for a meeting was two-fold, according to Redding.

"From our perspective, we wanted to bring (the organizations) up to date on what happend with the 102nd (Congress) and what is coming with the 103rd, and to focus on pending dairy issues.

"This was our first attempt to bring together some of the real leaders in the dairy industry to have a dialogue on trade issues and for Sen. Wofford to go out and reach out. We're faced with trend setting and shaping issues that we need their input on," he said.

As far as the success of the meeting, those attending nodded in agreement when Redding asked if there should be future roundtable discussions.

"For the first time doing it, it was a good first attempt," he said.

"We started with 20 to 25 people who idealy would like to be there. We sent out the letter and (he got a) 98-percent response, which is indicative of the interest that is out there. These people are looking for a forum to present their concerns. The message to me is, we have to do it more often."

PFA Says Kill More Deer

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) has called for the lowering of Pennsylvania's deer population to Pennsylvania Game Commission wildlife management goal levels and for new Game Commission programs to help farmers suffering deer damage.

PFA made its recommendations recently during testimony before the Game Commission.

Ellis Crowl, a York County dairyman and chairman of PFA's Wildlife Damage Control Committee, said, "I think we would all have to agree that a (Game Commission wildlife) management plan which allows for more than 40,000 deer to be slaughtered on the highways of the commonwealth annually, and a plan which allows for millions of dollars of crop losses annually, is not a plan with which we should be proud."

The PFA spokesman said the farm organization is eagerly awaiting results of a pilot "hotspot" program which allowed hunting on deer damaged farms in Bedford, Schuylkill, Crawford and Indiana counties during the regular antlered deer season last month.

Crowl said PFA believes such a program "has potential in areas where farms are surrounded by lands accessible to hunters." If it is successful, PFA will support the expansion of the program to other counties, "where a legitimate deer crop damage problem can be demonstrated," Crowl said.

"However, in areas where farms are surrounded by lands inaccessible to adequate numbers of hunters, other measures must also be attempted," Crowl said. "The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association continues to strongly request the commission consider some type of program to allow for permitted hunters to assist in the harvest of crop damaging deer," PFA's position is that a program could be devised to meet the needs of not only farmers, but also organized sportsmen groups and the Game Commission.

"In the event individual programs are not successful in reducing wildlife crop damage on farms," Crowl said, "PFA policy supports the development of a crop damage compensation fund."

Crowl said that eligible dairy farmers in Wisconsin received up to $5,000 in 1990 to pay for crop damage losses.

"This effectively reduces the Wisconsin producer's cost of milk production, and promotes unfair competition. Either reduce my damage, or allow me to produce milk on a level playing field with my competitors by compensating my losses, as Wisconsin farmers are being compensated," Crowl said.

Crowl also expressed concern for the farmers suffering crop damage due to an increased population in Canada geese.

While applauding Game Commission programs to lengthen seasons and bag limits in an effort to reduce populations of nuisance resident geese, PFA said the Game Commission should support the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service when it issues depredation permits to control bird damage.

PFA also recommended the opening of the fall turkey hunting season in southwestern Pennsylvania where farmers are being 'overrun" by turkeys.

"It is not our intention to condemn the Pennsylvania Game Commission," Crowl said. "We believe you are doing an excellent job in protecting the great wildlife resources of our state. We too support this resource. Unfortunately, many of us are supporting it beyond our means."

Crowl said that when it comes to the problem of deer damage crops, farmers, "feel like, at times, we are being placed in the same category as other endangered species.

"As we move through this next year, we hope to see real progress in reducing the degree of wildlife crop damage," Crowl said.

PFA is a voluntary, statewide farm organization which represents 23,189 member families in 54 county associations.

CHORE-TIME ®

Remodel with Chore-Time and you can have more birds, better performance and less maintenance. Chore-Time's 4 tier, 20 inch deep Duratrim is the same width as 3 tier dropping board systems and 4 tier reverse cages. Go from 60,000 birds to 80,000 birds.

ULTRAFLO® saves feed. Birds can't pick over feed while the feeder is running. When they eat the auger stops birds from piling feed and flinging feed. WHY NOT CHECK OUT THE FACTS FOR YOURSELF? Contact us now - or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO®

New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right) ULTRAFLO® II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste be keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.

Chore-Time's Popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System Is Now Even More Outstanding!

We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO® feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.

ULTRAFLO® II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance – up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day – over the original ULTRAFLO®. And even the original ULTRAFLO® was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO® II can help you be a leader, too!

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR.
Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary. Auger and trough are both warranted 5 full years. Chain feeders are not

F.O.2 Producers To Vote

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers in the milkshed will vote on the proposed amended New York-New Jersey Federal Milk Marketing Order (Order No. 2) in a mail referendum ending at 11:59 p.m., Feb. 18.

The amended order was contained in a final decision, on all federal milk orders, issued on Jan. 19, by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is based on the national hearing held in September, October, and November 1990.

Ronald C. Pearce, referendum agent, said all dairy farmers who delivered milk to pool plants and bulk tank units in April 1992 will be eligible to vote. A producer who is not a cooperative member will vote by individual ballot. A producer who is a cooperative member may vote collectively through the cooperative (if it has chosen this voting procedure) or may vote by individual ballot.

If the order as proposed to be amended is not approved by at least two-thirds of those casting ballots, the New York-New Jersey Federal Milk Marketing Order will be terminated.

The issues involved in the referendum include classification of milk uses and how reconstituted milk will be priced when made from nonfat dry milk or concentrated milk produced under another order.

Briefly stated, as amended, all federal milk orders will provide for three uniform classifications of milk use. Currently, a few orders have two classes of use, while most of the orders specify three classes, and some classification differences exist among the orders that have three classes.

Concentrated milk (milk that has had some of the water removed) that is shipped in bulk form from a plant regulated under one order to a plant(s) regulated under another order will now be treated the same as any other shipment of a bulk fluid milk product between such plants.

If such milk product is distributed as a labeled reconstituted fluid milk product by the receiving plant, the Class I use will be passed back to the originating order.

Currently, if such milk is assigned to Class I uses, the receiving market imposes on the handler that made the reconstituted milk a compensatory payment for the benefit of local producers.

Also, if a reconstituted product made from nonfat dry milk that was manufactured from producer milk under another federal order is distributed as a labeled reconstituted fluid milk product, the handler may elect to make a payment to the market where the nonfat dry milk was made. Such an option does not currently exist.

The changes to Federal Order No. 2 also are applicable to New York State Order No. 126 and New Jersey State Order No. 57-3. These concurrent state orders are essentially identical to the Federal order.

The final decision and the ballots will be placed in the mail soon. The referendum agent urges all eligible producers who are not voting collectively and who do not receive a ballot to contact the Referendum Agent at One Columbia Circle, Albany, N.Y. 12203-5156.

began in 1981 at Good's Vegetable and Fruit Auction, and incorporated shortly afterward. In 1986, the auction moved to its present location on Brethren Church Road. Leola charges 8 percent commission on produce sold. Horst noted the amount of spring bedding and nursery items have increased at the auction tremendously over the years.

Gebely, of Kutztown, said the auction has 600 consignors and 500 sellers. They pay on a weekly basis, with a minimum lot charge of 75 cents with a commission of 8½ percent on items sold.

Courtney, of Buffalo Valley, said the auction began in 1987 with 35 farmers who purchased shares of stock. Buffalo Valley posted sales last year of $1.3 million, with 700 buyers and 600 consignors. They handle nursery stock and hold a Christmas tree auction each year (last year, they sold an excess of 5,000 trees). In 1991, they built a large complex and added on to it in 1992. They charge 10 percent commission with no box charge.

Leinbach, of Leinbach's Produce, said the auction began in 1985 on a weekly basis, but expanded rapidly the following year. Their location is ideal, according to the manager, because they are located 30-40 minutes from the fruit belt of Virginia and are near Adams County, a huge apple producing area in Pennsylvania. They offer 28 varieties of peaches, 56 varieties of produce, and hold items for sale from 600 growers and 1,000 buyers. Combined sales in 1992 were about $2 million. They charge 8 percent commission and a service charge.

Establish rapport

Robinson asked the panel members a series of questions about the market and about the auction's response to various grower inquiries.

During the height of the growing season, many auctions experience a glut in material and the prices begin to tumble. According to Leinbach, vegetable growers should grade much harder during those times. "The key is to establish your reputation," he said. "Establish that long before the glut."

All the auction managers agreed about the importance of establishing good rapport with buyer clientele during the season. Also important to growers:

• Make sure the lots are arranged to they draw the attention of each buyer, according to Leinbach. Keep the lots together — that's where the buyer's attention is.

• Know buyers and buyer habits, according to Stoltzfus. Spend time at the auction and work at getting the buyers' attention. Also, speak up and be heard at the auction, and recommend ways the auction can improve service and marketability of your items.

• Present your product in the way you would if you were a buyer making a sale, according to Gebely. Make sure the buyer and auctioneer can see the product.

• "Copy the guys that have the success," said Leinbach. Keep the top of the box open and make sure the items are sitting nice, square, and neat. Make sure the produce is easy to see, and at chest level.

• Avoid topdressing, or making the produce look better than it really is, according to Courtney. The buyer will determine that grower has a reputation and "will make an adjustment," he said.

• Some auctions, to spur sales and establish pricing quickly, will start the season with produce shipped in from other areas. But most markets stick as much as possible to produce grown in the area during the regular season, according to Robinson.

• Honesty is the best policy. The buyers are intelligent, according to Courtney.

• Don't make contact with buyers off-site. For one thing, in the long term, it won't pay for the grower. A buyer who goes to the farm is looking for a bargain, and may not provide the best price, according to Stoltzfus.

Overall, according to the managers, quality produce will set the stage for better pricing and will ensure profitability for growers.

Tomato awards

On Tuesday at the conference, a tomato awards luncheon sponsored by Furman Foods and other companies honored growers with the highest tomato yields in the state. The following were honored:

• Class 1 machine harvest (60 or more acres): Furman Farms, Inc., Sam Rovenolt, manager. Located in Northumberland, Furman Farms won the award by harvesting 3,748 tons of usable fruit on 106.9 acres for a 35.1 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 2 machine harvest (40 to 59 acres): Joe and Robert Hess. Located in Mount Joy, the Hess brothers won the award by harvesting 1,541.8 tons of usable fruit on 42 acres for a 36.7 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 3 machine harvest (25-39 acres): Donald Mowrer. Mowrer, located in Marietta, harvested 1,359.5 tons of usable fruit on 36 acres for a 37.7 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 4 machine harvest (10-24 acres): Dale Frank and R. Roher. Frank and Roher, Elizabethtown, harvested 698 tons of usable fruit on 20 acres for a 34.9 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 1 hand harvest (15 or more acres): Robert MacBeth. Macbeth, Biglerville, harvested 433.4 tons of usable fruit on 16 acres for a 27 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 2 hand harvest (6-14 acres): Dio Shetler. Shetler, Turbotville, harvfested 289 tons of usable fruit on 9.9 acres for a 29.2 tons per acre average yield.

• Class 3 hand harvest (2-5 acres): Reuben K. Esh. Esh, Loganton, harvested 86.7 tons of usable fruit on 2.3 acres for a 37.6 tons per acre average yield.

Editor's note: More coverage of the Vegetable Conference next issue.

FFA Ertl Tractors For Sale

HATFIELD (Montgomery Co.) — The Pennsylvania FFA Foundation is announcing the arrival shipment of the second in a limited edition series of Ertl Tractors.

The profits from the sale of the tractors will go into the General Endowment Fund of the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation, which helps support statewide FFA Foundation activities.

The second tractor in a series of five Keystone Ertl Collector's tractors is a Super H Model. The tractor has the FFA emblem on the side of the hood and also the number 2 is imprinted on the Keystone emblem.

According to Dwight Woelkers, Foundation trustee and Pennsylvania FFA Foundation chairman of this project, the Super H has been a popular model, and if sales of the tractor at the Farm Show are any indicator, the second year model should be sold out within a few months. "We have reserved a limited amount of the first edition in this series, a Farmall 350, for those customers interested in purchasing the entire series," he said.

The total number of tractors ordered is the same as the year of the tractor, for instance, 1993 for this year. "We have had inquiries from all over the United States wishing to buy this Pennsylvania FFA Keystone series," he said.

Cost of the tractors, including shipping, is $35. Orders may placed by calling (800) 523-5291, Ext. 397 for VISA or MasterCard. Checks may be made out to the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation and sent to Dwight Woelkers, Marketing Director, Hatfield Quality Meats, 2700 Funk Road, P.O. Box 902, Hatfield, PA. 19440-0902.

Ertl tractors to benefit the FFA Foundation are now on sale. Dwight Woelkers, marketing director, Hatfield, right, holds the second in a series. Paula Godshall, marketing receptionist, holds the first in the tractor series.

Penn State Clubs

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club and the Penn State Block and Bridle Club will be sponsoring the fourth annual Animal Products Spectacular from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, February 6, at the Nittany Mall in State College.

This event promotes the importance of animal products and their nutritional values to consumers. There will be many displays and people on hand to talk to shoppers about animal products.

Food samples and door prizes will be given throughout the day.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff and his wife Peggy will help judge the cooking contest which starts at 11:30 a.m.

Others, such as Lamartine Hood, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, and commodity queens will also be in attendance.

Sire Power Has Turn Around Year

tributor to Sire Power's sales for many years.

Sire Power's financial statement for the year showed a 9.5 percent increase in income, and a .1 percent increase in expenses. But the board of directors concluded the dollar distribution to the average patron would not have been sufficient to warrant the expense incurred in making the distribution, so the net income was paid into reserves, which contributed to an increase in equity of $299,000.

General Manager DuWayne Kutz reported that the closing of the Frederick, Maryland, facilities over the past two years has given the association improved efficiencies of operation. No additional employees were added as the bulls and all operational activities were transferred to Tunkhannock.

Kutz said the future calls for Sire Power to sample and maintain a large enough sire program to be competitive in the A.I. industry.

"Radical changes are being made in our industry," Kutz said. "In Wisconsin a holding cooperative structure has been developed between an A.I. organization and the Wisconsin DHIA. This was done with the thought that ultimately there will be long range savings for dairymen. If this is true, then this structure deserves consideration here in the East.

"National DHIA will decide in March if state boundaries limiting competition between DHI's will be dropped or maintained. Whether this is a positive or a negative direction, only time will tell. However, in all of agriculture, the buzz word is efficiency, and possibly competition in the DHIA system will help to gain some efficiency."

In the awards program, Edward Flitcraft was named the recepient of Sire Power's annual service to A.I award. Ed and his wife Gertrude received a plaque from President Rickard.

Fifteen college students from Sire Power's membership areas were presented $500 scholarships. The applicants were required to submit a scholarship application form that was screened by each sales division's scholarship committee. In addition a $2,000 scholarship was awarded in memory of Lew Campbell, Sire Power's past general manager. The Lew Campbell Memorial Scholarship was presented to Rebecca Sonnen, Richland.

Other scholarship winners were: from the Northeast sales division, Melanie Eachus, Woodstown, NJ; Robert O'Toole, Loysville; Kirk Sattazahn, Womelsdorf; Scott Youse, Oley; Jeffrey Pirrung, Ulysses; Steven Dietrich, Germansville; Teresa Hill, Lebanon; Kevin Smith, Milton; Andrew Morley, Genesee; and Shelley Harshbarger, Mifflintown.

In the Maryland sales division are Jennifer Trout, Forrest Hill; Heather Hamm, Clarksburg; Bardley Morris, Chestertown; and James Allen, Jefferson.

Routine monitoring of birds at the Pennsylvania Farm Show revealed that a flock of exhibition birds from Chester County had been exposed to the disease.

Avian influenza does not affect human health, Wolff said.

"We are taking these restrictive actions after consultation with the poultry industry," Wolff said.

"The surveillance program was created in response to substantial poultry industry losses from outbreaks of highly pathogenic Avian Influenza in 1983 and 1986."

Avian influenza is a disease of domestic poultry caused by exposure to Type A influenza virus. The prior outbreaks of avian influenza caused by highly pathogenic H5N2 virus resulted in losses of more than $100 million in Pennsylvania.

Surveillance programs have also identified the avian influenza virus in several bird markets in New York City, and exposure to the disease was discovered in a bird in Dade County, Florida.

Animal health experts from the state Department of Agriculture believe it is likely that the H5N2 virus responsible for the current outbreak is circulating in mid-Atlantic States' live bird marketing systems.

Poultry suspected of exposure to influenza must be immediately reported to the Department of Agriculture.

Proper dead bird disposal and manure management are crucial to prevent the spread of influenza.

The Department of Agriculture urges poultry producers to take extra care to sanitize all conveyances of live poultry and to minimize contact between poultry flocks. Any sign of respiratory disease in poultry should be promptly investigated and movements of birds curtailed until influenza has been eliminated as a possible cause.

Friends Of Tobacco Meeting Held In Paradise

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.)—In a "Friends Of Tobacco" meeting at the tobacco auction warehouse Thursday morning more than 300 farmers, mostly Amish, listened to several speakers laud the benefits of the tobacco industry.

A crowd of more than 300 farmers, mostly Amish, attended a "Friends of Tobacco" meeting in Paradise, Lancaster County.

Mike Brubaker, agricultural consultant from Ephrata, was the moderator and said cash crops such as tobacco are needed in Lancaster County as an alternative to intensive animal agriculture. With the high land values and the current push for legislation for nutrient management control, farming enterprises other than dairy may be needed in the future.

Farrell Delman, president, Tobacco Merchants Association (TMA), released a new study that showed the national tobacco industry was directly and indirectly responsible for 2.56 million jobs or 2.3% of all jobs in 1991. During the period 1986 to 1991, the number of jobs grew by 100,000 from 2.46 million to 2.56 million. The report entitled "Tobacco's Economic Contribution to Pennsylvania and the Nation" shows that the U.S. tobacco industry produced $70.8 billion in salaries and wages in 1991, up some 26% from 1986's $56 billion.

"The tobacco industry in 1991 represents a significant and dynamic segment of Pennsylvania's and the nation's economy," Delman said. "In Pennsylvania the tobacco industry was directly and indirectly responsible for 113,000 Pennsylvania jobs, generating over $2.8 billion in annual worker compensation. Of this total 29,700 jobs were produced in the core and supplier sector, consisting of tobacco grower, distributor and product manufacturing jobs, and direct suppliers to the industry, while 83,300 jobs resulted from spillover effects due to the tobacco industry."

Joseph Helweicz, vice president of Corporate Communications, Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, said tobacco has been an easy target for tax revenues because it's easy to collect from the few companies in the business. But he said the largest tax adventage came from payroll taxes rather than the tax on the products. Ryan also pointed out that exports have had a very positive effect on the balance of payment situation in relation to foreign countries.

Thomas Ryan, chief executive officer, Helme Tobacco Company, said the future of cigar Pennsylvania Type 41 chewing tobacco was positive and Neal Buss, Pennsylvania deputy secretary of agriculture, brought greetings from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Eric Probst, owner of the tobacco auction warehouse, was the host for the morning meeting with a noon lunch. Sponsors listed on the program included: American Cyanamid Corporation; Bank of Lancaster County; Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc.; Carolina Greenhouse; Cochran Corporation; Dewelanco; Farmers First & Farmers Ag Credit; Fulton Bank; Keystone Farm Credit; Meridian Bank; Pennsylvania Tobacco Growers Association; Rockvale Village Inn; and Valent.

daughter of Randy and Betty Anderson of Waynesburg. She plans to attend Penn State University and major in biology or physical therapy. Amy was one of three nominated for a D.A.R. award and to Who's Who Among American High School Students. She is involved in volley- ball, softball, chorus, ladies show choir, Spanish Club, and Student Council. She was chosen Farm Credit Outstanding 4-H Girl for 1991. She is active in her church youth group, choir, and many other church organizations. She enjoys sports, reading, singing, and sewing. Amy recently took the Dale Carnegie Course and received two Outstanding Speaking Awards.

Runner-up in the queen contest was Jennifer Patterson, representing the Butler Fair. She is the 17-year-old daughter of William and Phyllis Patterson of Slippery Rock. Jennifer attends Slippery Rock Area High School where she ranked first in her class. She plans to attend Grove City College to major in English. Her goal is to complete a master's degree and teach at the secondary level. She attended the 1992 PA Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences and is the recipient of the Rotary Youth Leadership Award. She also was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. At the 1992 4-H Roundup, she won Grand Champion Market Steer, Champion Angus Female, and Supreme Champion Female honors. She has been on the 4-H Livestock Judging team at many events. Her hobbies include reading, playing the flute, and studying voice.

State Young Farmers To Meet In Reading

The annual convention features an array of educational sessions, workshops, and tours for the family, including topics on on-farm composting, Market Master, legume cover crops, and estate planning. In addition, scheduled are a number of tour sites, including:

• Tuesday, Feb. 9: East Penn Manufacturing Co., Inc. battery and accessory manufacturer; F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. feed manufacturer; and Corner View Farm, a tour of the Dalton family's extension farm toy collection.

• Thursday, Feb. 11: Trace Pheasantry, a breeder flock; Spayd's Greenhouse, a full-line nursery and garden center and flower shop; and Bullinger's Sawmill, which takes logs and turns them into finished kiln-dried lumber.

Also included is a spouses program, which includes a painter.

Merriedibles Create Gourmet Food With A Flair

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

CHAMPION (Somerset Co.) — In the two years since its beginning, Merriedibles Gourmet Foods and Catering, owned by Mary Putman, has become recognized as a unique catering service in the area, serving from two to 500 persons.

Putman is without doubt a genius with foods, shunning written recipes, yet guided by her own keen palate in adding herbs, spices, and seasonings as she cooks. "I like playing in the kitchen and being creative," she said. "I don't follow recipes from other sources, but just for ideas, because I have this mental block about following recipes," she said. "In the cooking end there's no recipe at all."

The Pittsburgh native, who attended college at the University of California at Berkeley prior to her career as a professional chef, says she saw a need for a gourmet caterer in the area. "It was a new concept for this area," she said, "but not in the city. People now have access to a professional chef," she added, "they can have in their home the type of cuisine normally found in a four-star restaurant."

Ingredients for the exotic dishes made by Merriedibles are of exceptional quality. Artificial foods and flavorings will never find a home among the many imported products shelved in the Merriedibles' immaculate stainless steel kitchens.

Yes, the foods are more expensive, so expect a greater outlay of cash for Merriedibles Catering. But Putman says "I want people to know it's because of the ingredients, not because I go to the Bahamas each year."

Putman says straight-away that Merriedibles is not for everyone. "We tend to stay away from what is considered standard fare," she says. If a potential customer wants just a ham and potatoes type of menu, a recommendation may follow to contact a more appropriate caterer.

She is determined to be focused on the sector of society she wants to serve. It isn't easy to recommend that a customer look elsewhere without risking being labeled as a snob, but it's necessary. Doing otherwise would ultimately be unfair to both parties and a waste of time.

A cursory glance over the pages listing both hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, light buffet, luncheon and seated dinner party menus, reveals lavish seafood dishes. The exotic menus include chicken, veal, cornish game hens, pork loin, beef and lamb. Fresh vegetables build fabulous Merriedibles salads.

The lavish dessert page taunts the chocolate lover with items like a white chocolate cheese cake with bittersweet sauce. Or, how about chocolate mocha mousse tart, chocolate hazelnut truffle torte or milk chocolate peanut turtle tart? The list continues to feature caramel, gingerbreads, raspberries, blueberries, pumpkin and other desserts.

Despite her flair with foods and a growing roster of regular clients, Putman says she loves to eat pizza. When someone cooks for her or takes her out, she says she's thrilled. Even if they only give her a peanut butter and jelly sandwich, she finds the gesture very special. By the day's end she said, she is tired of tasting different foods.

For about 10 years Putman worked as an executive chef, overseeing food preparations in some fine restaurants. In Stahlstown it was at The Brass Duck. The Cafe Nola in Philadelphia specialized in Cajun or Creole cooking, but at Philadelphia's Copa II, she said the specialty was Caribbean cuisine. At Mancuso's in Palm Springs, Cal., it was northern Italian cuisine.

One of her early catering adventures say Putman and her staff serving at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History in Pittsburgh. The theme was "Night On The Nile," so the Merriedibles team served exotic Egyptian dishes they had prepared, after intense study and research on the part of their employer.

Something most people don't realize is how a full-fledged catering service operates. Putman, whose hair is a mass of short black curls, with white wisps over one brow, says that most folks will probably use a caterer once during their life and that's for a wedding reception. They don't understand the flexibility, she said. A caterer is for any occasion, be it simple or grand.

"Sometimes we just deliver the food because the hostess has her own staff," said Putman. But Merriedibles handles formal sit-down dinner parties, if desired, from the preparation, to serving, to clean-up. "Basically, all you have to do is take your shower and get ready," she says.

Although she didn't make the Merriedibles' outside sign, owner Mary Putman did design it. The year-round caterer offers only the finest gourmet foods.

Some hostesses buy the total Merriedibles serving package because it allows them to devote all their attention to their guests. Others don't want to be bothered with the mess of cleaning up later.

Three or four consultations with the hostess ensure the success of her party. They have discussed at length the chosen menu in which Putman allows no repetition. 'When you work with food a lot," she said, "you have a real feel for it." So every dish on the menu will complement its fellows in texture, flavor, and color.

If Merriedibles' staff is serving, then Putman is given a prior tour of the house by the hostess. They will discuss layout of rooms, silverware, and china, well in advance of the party.

"We do some real personalized service," said Putman whose objective is to satisfy her customer.

Public relations are as much a part of Putman's work as planning and actually cooking. A new customer who is planning a party needs to feel comfortable. Often she is nervous, afraid of a glitch or that her guests will be disappointed.

The elite society in one area community has hostesses who are strongly competitive with their dinner parties. In fact they are thus judged. But Putman says confidently, "There's rarely an instance where I'm thrown."

A comprehensive file for each client keeps Putman organized. She saves any comments for future reference so when she again serves them, she already knows their likes and dislikes.

With clean, expressive jaw lines and brown eyes that sparkle with intelligence and humor, Putman admits unabashedly, to a habit of regularly murmuring to herself. Doing so helps her to concentrate on the job at hand, even if her staff is listening.

"Some people think our food is strange," grins Putman, adding that she's never prepared a meatloaf or fried chicken in her life and never deep-fat fries any foods. Nevertheless, she enjoys going to her parents' home at least once a week for her mom's homecooking.

"We target people with disposable income," said Putman. "We're not for everybody in terms of food or expense. It's tricky to explain that to a new customer," he said.

Merriedibles owner, Mary Putman, is at her desk in the catering shop at the Country Commons, Champion.

Merriedibles is also a regular supplier of baked goods and deserts to a number of area restaurants and markets.

Additionally, Merriedibles offers professional and personal consulting services for all food service needs, holiday gifts and certificates, gourmet picnic baskets, culinary classes, entrees to go, fine pastries and exceptional desserts.

So, while wild mushroom crostini or smoked salmon tartare with rye blinis aren't the fare for every appetite, these are the things that set Merriedibles apart and that contributed to a 1992 business growth rate of 50 percent over the previous year.

Putman thinks she can survive for a while before computerizing the business, perhaps another year. And if she ever decides to give out a recipe (it's unheard of at Merriedibles), it will only be in the cookbook that an editor friend is begging her to create. It's not a bad life for the girl who debated whether or not she should attend law school after she had majored in journalism and political science in college.

JOINING FORCES to bring you the best

It takes strength to succeed in the farm equipment business.
Solid resources, product excellence and financial stability are key ingredients to grow in the good times.. and the bad.

Separately, Vicon, Deutz-Fahr and PZ have prospered with a tradition of innovation. PZ revolutionized hay harvesting with the invention of the rotary mower. Vicon's pendulum system fertilizer spreaders are used in more than 100 countries. Fahr's rotary system was a breakthrough for faster haymaking.

Now, with the strength and experience of the world-wide GREENLAND organization, we're even stronger.

Greenland has pooled its resources in one cohesive organization, marketing a wide range of drum and disc mowers, mower conditioners, tedders, rakes and a full line of balers for hay, straw and silage.

Manufacturing has been integrated into four specialized plants, each concentrating on every aspect of manufacturing, research and development, and product design for specific product ranges.

New, innovative products like the Deutz-Fahr "OptiCut" round baler and wider cut

NEW, wider Vicon AM 2800 / 3200 disc mowers cut full width at 9 ft. and 10 1/2 ft.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Everyone needs to be needed.

When the paperwork is piled up to your earlobes, when the phone rings for the umpteenth time in a morning, when the cry for "Mooommmmmmm,!" echoes in your ears until you want to scream and slam the door behind you on the way out..... it helps to remember how lonely not being needed would be.

The call of "Moooommmmmmm!" no longer echoes in our household as it does in those where children are resident. Instead, it's been replaced by long-distance "Hi, Mom!" calls from far and even farther away.

Now we have joined the official ranks of "empty nest syndrome" parents, those couples left to rattle around in their own house when the last child departs. In this case, the last child has moved on to Penn State's main campus to complete his final two years toward his agriculture degree.

Our "nest," however, continues to overflow with meeting the needs of a myriad of our other dependents — four-legged type.

Feeding the calves a few morning ago, I broke up laughing at the sight of one particular bunch of our barnyard "children."

Outside the milkhouse is a sort of porch, a flat piece of concrete, which bridges the gap between the paved driveway and the milkhouse door. Along the upper edge of the porch is a stone retaining wall, edge of a natural, in-ground planter utilizing the sloping hill into which the milkhouse is built.

Lined up along the four feet stretch of the stone wall was a neat row of nearly a dozen rounded, furry backsides. Cats. Black cats, gray cats, black and white cats, gray and white cats, and of course, dark tiger-striped Butch. All in the same pose, the same patient position.

Waiting. Waiting for someone to come through the door with a bucket of milk for their breakfast. Like kids in a cafeteria line, only somewhat more orderly.

Normally, they'll be underfoot through calf feedings, or waiting beside the upturned bucket lids which serve as community cat serving dishes.

Whatevere possessed this feline crew to que up in this most orderly fashion outside the milkhouse door is beyond my imagination. I had been away the previous evening; perhaps their suppertime had been overlooked and they had no intention of allowing a repeat of that neglect.

Inside the house, another feline prowls the "empty nest." Actually she has her own nest, a heavy snuggle-bag coverlet spread over the double beanbag chair — except for when the cover is warming the Farmer though his evening TV-nap. On occasion, he will actually remove the blanket from under the cat, an act of almost unpardonable aggression reflected in her stare at him from steely green eyes.

Then she comes to my lap for comfort and consolation, launching a throaty chirp (this cat does not meow) of greeting. If I linger at the kitchen table doing paperwork beyond the time she considers opening of regular "lap" hours, she parks herself next to the chair and fixes me with an impatient glare.

And the dog has claimed his own niche in the nest — slightly away from the cat's. Our medium-sized, long-haired dog is to be an "outside" pet, though we've not been able to ever completely convince him of that status. Soon after I returned home very late one night from a meeting, the familiar sound of his forepaw scratching at the front door started.

"Did you feed the dog?," I asked the Farmer.

"Yeah; he didn't do that until you got home," came the reply.

Okay, so maybe he's a little spoiled. Knows who takes pity on him on a damp night, lets him in to dry off and then doesn't have the heart to wake him from a sound sleep under the coffee table.

Not even when he opens one eye to see if he'll be overlooked as we get ready for bed. So he can speak onto the couch for the rest of the night.

Empty nest? Not really. The dirty socks, scruffy sweatshirts and pairs of sneakers that feathered the nest have merely been replaced by hair balls.

It's nice to be needed.

Facts and Myths About Eye Care

Here are some common beliefs. Can you tell which are true and which are false?

1 It is safe to wear disposable contact lenses while sleeping.

False. Wearing any contact lens - disposable or daily-wear - during sleep increases the risk of harm to the wearer's eyes.

2 The normal human infant is born blind.

True. Vision at birth is about 20/400. It then develops by stages - e.g. about 20/200 at six months, 20/100 at one year, etc.

3 You need 20/20 vision for safe driving.

False. Most states, including Pennsylvania, require less visual acuity to qualify for a driver's license. Far more dangerous than poor vision is the driver suffering from physical, mental or emotional fatigue.

4 Wearing another person's prescription glasses may harm your eyes.

False. The wrong prescription probably will be uncomfortable, cause eye fatigue or nausea, but it will not affect the health of your eyes

6 Cataracts are removed with lasers.

False. Cataract surgery is the removal of the lens from the eye and its replacement with an artificial lens A laser may be used later for the post-operative improvement of vision

7 Children should have their eyes examined before they are ready for school.

True. Children should have an eye examination when they are three to four years old to check visual acuity, binocular alignment and general eye health Infants or children exhibiting eye problems should be examined earlier.

8 Wearing sun glasses during the day can help you see better at night.

True. Without protection from hours of brilliant daylight, your eyes will lose their ability to perceive objects at night.

9 The three major causes of blindness are cataracts, glaucoma and diabetes.

True. Some authorities, however, feel that the leading cause of blindness is failure to recognize the signs and symptoms of eye problems, and not knowing where to go for help.

10 A child's crossed eye will usually straighten itself if left alone.

False. Medical or surgical treatment is required to save sight. Treatment may consist of special lenses, a patch worn over the good eye, surgery, or a combination of the three

Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas
Lancaster Extension Home Economist

Although great advances have been made in controlling infectious diseases, changing lifestyles are presenting challenges in their control. There are three at-risk populations we need to consider:

More than 50% of preschool children are in some type of child care, and by the end of the decade, this is likely to increase to over 75%.

Today 12% of our population is more than 65, and by the year 2000, this number is likely to grow to around 20%.

The average hospital stay has decreased about 19% since 1970; more ill or recuperating people are being cared for at home.

We are all aware of the role personal hygiene plays in good health, but how do household surfaces impact the spread of infectious diseases? Studies have shown that some germs are easily transferred from surfaces to hands by touching our eyes, nose or mouth. Surfaces play a major role in transmission of germs among children in group care situations. Our elderly population is especially susceptible to serious illness by respiratory and gastrointestional infections.

Why is proper cleaning of household surfaces important in controlling the spread of certain diseases? There are several reasons: very few viruses are needed to cause an infection; many germs are capable of surviving from a few hours up to three days on moist surfaces; and some are capable of growing to large numbers. Surfaces also play a role in the transfer of disease, passing bacteria like Salmonella, by direct contact with foods or by handling during food preparation. Also, a lot of contact with surfaces occurs during daily activities, especially by children.

Regular cleaning and proper disinfection are two simple ways to reduce the spread of disease. Cleaning products remove dirts and food particles where microorganism can grow; and disinfectants are their key allies because they are formulated to actially kill germs. It is essential to follow label directions to get proper disinfections. And remember that disinfectants are the most effective after a surface has been cleaned.

Chlorine bleach makes an inexpensive disinfectant. Household bleaches contain from 2% to 6% chlorine. The amount of bleach to add to water depends on the percent of chlorine it contains.

The volume of bleach to add to one quart of water is as follows: 2% chlorine bleach — add 2 teaspoons; 4% chlorine bleach — add 1 teaspoon; 6% chlorine bleach — add ½ teaspoon. The volume of bleach to add to 1 gallon of water is as follows: 2% bleach — 2 tablespoons; 4% bleach — 1 tablespoon; 6% bleach — ½ tablespoon.

Free Hot Chocolate At Ski Roundtop

LEWISBERRY (York Co.) — For those who love gliding or flying down a mountain ski trail there's only one thing better than a new snowfall — hot chocolate.

On Saturday, January 30, at Ski Roundtop in Lewisberry, dairy farmers of the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA) will be serving a large batch of free hot chocolate to the nearly 4,000 skiers who will be enjoying the slopes that day.

To make hot chocolate for 4,000 skiers it takes 150 gallons of fresh whole milk provided by Embassy Dairies of Waldorf, Maryland, and 106 cans of Hershey's Chocolate Milk mix, compliments of Hershey Chocolate.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princesses will be serving free hot chocolate from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to remind skiers about the good taste of real hot chocolate — hot chocolate made with real milk and not water. Real hot chocolate made with milk is nutrient rich with minerals, vitamins and proteins.

The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association promotes and advertises milk and dairy products for its more than 5,000 dairy farmer members in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, New Jersey and West Virginia.

Breakfast Isn't Just Bananas

Breakfast is often considered the most important meal of the day. But unfortunately our busy time schedules often make it the most missed meal of the day. The next time you find yourself running short on breakfast time, treat yourself to a quick high energy breakfast drink made with DAIRY fresh MILK and your favorite fruits. For a tasty Banana drink... combine three sliced ripe Bananas, three cups of MILK, and honey and vanilla to taste. Place in your blender and whip until smooth and frothy. Serve immediately and enjoy your breakfast with Real Dairy Products. A suggestion from Mercy Keeney, Bradford Co. Dairy Princess.

HYTEST BRAND CORN DOES IT AGAIN ...

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON!

NATIONAL CORN YIELD CONTEST NCYC

Member National Corn Growers Association

Our Reputation is Growing in Your Fields.

NCGA CHAMPIONS
HYTEST Brand Corn has done it again in 1991! Two National Championships and 4 State Winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

Mr. James C. Justice II of Beckley, West Virginia was named the Class A, Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 259.0697 Bushels per Acre and the No-Till Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 251.7041 Bushels per Acre. These yields were also the Virginia State Winners. HYTEST Brand HT650A was used for both wins.

Mr. Jim Russin of Sharon, Connecticut was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 178.8533 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT650A.

Mr. Joe Matejik of Mechanicsville, Pennsylvania was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 200.5841 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT736.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE
HYTEST Brand Corn has had 16 State Winners and 3 National Champions out of the east in the past 2 years! This is a record of performance many larger National Brands can't match!

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
The same careful breeding, testing, and selection process that went into producing these Champion Hybrids goes into all of our varieties. Each variety, under the proper conditions, has the potential to be a Champion.

HYBRID SELECTION
Your HYTEST Brand Sales Representatives and Regional Agronomists are trained to help you select the best variety for your particular growing conditions. They will follow up with technical assistance right through harvest time.

TOP SELECTIONS FOR 1993
Each season, after review of the many test plots, demonstration plots, and numerous grower's fields, Joe Butwin, Manager – Farm Seed at Beachley-Hardy develops his own special "favorites" list to share with all of us. Joe's choices this season are:

NORTH	SOUTH
HT7224-SX – 90 DAY	HT7510-SX – 113 DAY
HTX7228-SX – 95 DAY	HT7728-SX – 116 DAY
HT318-SX – 100 DAY	HTX7748-SX – 118 DAY

YOUR CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON
Championships are nice, but what's really important is producing the highest grain and forage yields possible in the most cost effective manner. HYTEST Brand Hybrid Corn Seed will allow you to do just that. Proven consistently season after season!

NEWS FLASH

Veal Dishes Easy To Make Wonderful To Eat

Tender...luxurious...worth going out for. These are the comments often associated with veal. But why limit veal to eating out when you can prepare it so easily at home?

There are almost as many veal cuts as there are ways to prepare them. The gentle flavor of veal makes it a perfect partner with practically every sauce and seasoning.

Sliced into salads, veal transforms a side dish into a entree. Put into pastas, veal becomes a savory blend of tomatoes and herbs, simmered into soup, veal tenderizes some less tender cuts.

If you enjoy veal but lack recipes to make it, try these. You'll find veal fits the healthful, uncomplicated way we prefer to cook and eat today.

VEAL WELLINGTON

1 pound veal fillet
3 tablespoons butter
8 ounces puff pastry
1 egg, beaten

Filling:

3 tablespoons butter
1 mild onion, finely chopped
6 cups mushrooms, finely chopped
Salt and freshly ground pepper

To prepare filling: Melt butter in small pan. Add the onion and cook for 5 minutes without browning. Add the mushrooms and seasoning and cook over low heat without a lid for 20 to 25 minutes until the mixture is concentrated and the juices evaporated.

Cut the fillet through the center and open out flat. Fill with mushroom mixture and spread the outside with the remaining butter.

Roll out pastry to twice the size of the veal. Trim to make a neat rectangle.

Place the veal on half of the pastry. Damp the edges of the pastry with water and draw the other half of the pastry over the fillet. Seal the edges together carefully to prevent juices from oozing out. Make decorative leaves with spare pastry.

Lift onto greased baking sheet. Brush with beaten egg and make a couple of slits in the pastry to allow steam to escape.

Bake in 425 degrees for 15 minutes; reduce and bake for 35 minutes more. Serve hot or cold.

VEAL FRICASSEE

1 pound cubed veal
2 onions, quartered
1 lemon, grated rind and juice
1 bouquet garni (parsley, thyme, bayleaf tied together and removed before serving)
3¼ cups water
4 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons heavy cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper
Garnish: Mushrooms and chopped parsley

Put veal, onions, lemon rind, bouquet garni and water in a large saucepan. Simmer, covered, for 1 hour or until the veal is tender.

Stain and reserve 2 cups of the stock. Lift out the pieces of veal and place on a heatproof serving dish to keep hot.

Melt half the butter in a saucepan, add the flour and cook until it bubbles. Gradually stir in the reserved stock to make a smooth sauce. Bring to a boil, then remove from the heat and stir in the egg yolks, cream, and one tablespoon of lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper. Gently reheat, but do not boil or the egg yok will become granular. Pour over the veal and keep hot.

Melt the remaining butter and fry the mushrooms until tender. Use to garnish with chopped parsley.

For a more economical meal, replace the egg yolks and cream with a small can of evaporated milk. Fried bacon curls may be used as a garnish.

EAST-WEST VEAL CHOPS

1 large garlic clove, crushed
2 veal rib chops, 8 ounces each
1 teaspoon olive oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup dry white wine
1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger
½ teaspoon toasted sesame oil
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Rub garlic over both sides of veal rib chops. Heat olive oil in medium nonstick skillet. Add veal chops. Cook 10 to 12 minutes over medium heat, turning once, from medium. Transfer to plate; sprinkle with salt. Keep warm. Drain excess fat from skillet if necessary. Add wine and ginger to skillet. Cook and stir over high heat for 1 minute or until reduced as desired. Stir in sesame oil. Pour sauce over chops. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 2.

East meets West to create a taste-tantalizing meal that's ready to serve in less than 30 minutes.

VEAL CORDON BLEU

4 2½-ounce thin-sliced veal cutlets
4 2-ounce slices Swiss cheese
2 1-ounce slices prosciutto ham
Flour
1 egg, beaten with 2 tablespoons milk
Bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Layer as follows, 1 slice veal cutlet, 1 slice cheese, 1 slice ham, 1 slice cheese, and 1 slice veal cutlet.

Press together as for a sandwich and seal the edges. Hold together with toothpicks. Coat both sides with flour. Dip into egg mixture, coat with bread crumbs.

Melt butter into a skillet. Saute the breaded cutlet sandwiches on one side, flip them over and bake in 300 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 2.

VEAL RAGOUT

1 pound cubed veal
1 tablespoon seasoned flour
8 bacon slices, cut into ½-inch pieces
1 medium onion, peeled and chopped
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 cups stock made from 2 beef bouillon cubes
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon tomato puree
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning

Trim veal and coat with seasoned flour.

Fry bacon lightly, add the onion and fry until tender. Transfer to casserole dish.

Heat the oil in a skillet and fry veal until lightly browned. Add to the casserole dish. Stir in the stock, Worcestershire sauce, tomato puree and herbs. Bake with the lid on for 1½ hours or until the veal is tender.

MUSHROOM VEAL CHOPS

4 veal chops
Salt and freshly ground pepper
4 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions, peeled and chopped
2 cups mushrooms, cleaned and sliced
2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
½ cup light cream

Season chops with salt and pepper. Broil for 10 minutes on each side until the fat is crisp and brown. Place on serving dish to keep warm.

To make the sauce, melt butter and saute onions for 5 minutes. Add the mushrooms, herbs, and simmer 5 more minutes. Gradually add cream, stirring continuously over low heat until the sauce is thick and creamy. Season with salt and pepper.

Pour the hot sauce over the chops, garnish with watercress if desired.

VEAL STEW WITH RAVIOLI

Combine for coating:

3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Coat:

1 pound veal stew meat; cubed

Brown in 4 teaspoons shortening and add

¼ cup chopped onion
1 small clove minced garlic

Cook 4 to 5 minutes. Add:

1½ cups water

Cover and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender. Add:

10-ounce package frozen peas
1 pound can ravioli
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon dried oregano, crushed.

Cook 15 minutes, stir occasionally.

Serves 4.

Planning a superbowl party this weekend? Here is a dairy rich recipe that is great for a party. It comes from Clearfield County Dairy Princess Shannon Curry. The 16-year-old is one of seven daughters of Melvin and Joan Curry.

Shannon is a junior at Moshannon Valley High School where she is a member of the National Honor Society and active in chorus.

She owns three of the family's 43 Holsteins and works on their 119-acre farm where they raise corn, hay, oats, and silage.

In between farm chores and school activities, Shannon speaks up for the dairy industry in her area. This is one of the recipes that she shares with consumers.

She hopes you will enjoy her recipe — and your party.

CHEESE BALL

Soften:

4 ounces dried beef
8 ounces cream cheese
8 ounces grated cheddar cheese

Stir with wooden spoon. Add:

1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon celery salt

Stir until blended; form into a ball. Chill and serve with crackers.

Auction To Benefit Lancaster 4-H Program

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Looking for a day of family fun? Get the kids, hop in the car and come to the Lancaster County 4-H Auction where there's sure to be something to please everyone.

Held on Saturday, February 6 at 9:30 a.m. at the Farm and Home Center, this year's auction features items such as autographed sports items, candy for Valentine's Day, and Winross trucks. Numerous gift certificates will be auctioned off, including an overnight package for two at Willow Valley, passes to Dutch Wonderland and Gym Blasters, tickets for the Dutch Apple Dinner theater and Sight and Sound Easter show, and enough admissions to the Castle Roller Ring for a great party.

In addition, certificates will be sold for breeding services from Atlantic Breeders Cooperative and Sire Power, Barn-Dri from Martin Limestone, and food from Miller Smorgasbord, Burger King, and Shady Maple Restaurant.

For the sports enthusiast, there's a football signed by Penn State coach Joe Paterno and one autographed by the 1992 Manheim Central Barons championship team. Also on sale will be a baseball card signed by local football hero Frank Reich of the Buffalo Bills. Baseball and football card collectors should come looking for cards to fill out their collection.

There will be plenty to help brighten up your home as well. Hang a Christian Newswanger painting over the fireplace, or fill a corner with an aquarium or Eldreth pottery. Other goodies include framed pictures, flower arrangements, Breyer horse models, Bollman hats and plants.

When the bidding stirs your appetite, wander to the refreshment area where there will be donuts, coffee and orange juice in the morning and hot dogs, soup, chips, pies and cakes in the afternoon.

Auction items can be previewed at the Farm and Home Center on Friday, February 5 between 5:00 and 8:00 p.m.

Proceeds from the auction are earmarked for the 4-H Development Fund and will benefit the county's 4-H program, which includes more than 4,000 youth ages 8 through 19 and 500 adult volunteers. Monies are used for the purchase of educational materials, entry fees to events, transportation costs, awards, and volunteer leader training sessions. More than $6,000 was raised at the 1992 auction.

For more information or to donate items for the auction, contact the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension office at (717)394-6851.

Did You Know...

The sale of cookbooks today is surpassed only by sales of the Bible and dictionaries. The first English cookbook was written in the late 1300's by the chefs who prepared meals for King Richard II.

About 75 percent of the National Football League (NFL) teams employ a registered dietitian for assistance with everything from menu planning to checking body composition to providing nutrition advice, according to researchers at Baylor University. The researchers also found that NFL players, who consume an average of 3,000 to 4,000 calories a day, are interested in learning about diets that will keep down weight and blood cholesterol levels, especially in the off-season.

According to a recent Consumer Network study, only 3% of Americans admit to knowing how to cook. Of those who do cook, 60% do so for health, 54% for cost savings, and 42% because of family values/quality of life reasons.

According to the study, what constitutes "cooking" these days includes heating a meal and preparing a salad. Only 30% of those surveyed believe that making a sandwich is not cooking.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Jane Heckman, Effort, would like a recipe for a white cake that has sour cream in the batter. After pouring the batter in the baking pan, it is drizzled with melted chocolate chips and baked. When you eat the cake, you find swirls of thick chocolate. We will drop this request if we do not receive an answer within the next week.

QUESTION — Anne Good, Lititz, would like a recipe for sesame chicken soup.

QUESTION — Ruth Edwards, Kennett Square, asks what effect epsom salts have on strawberries? Is it a natural laxative or what? Can someone answer her question. I know that several old recipes used epsom salts for making jam, and it seems to work as a thickening agent rather than a laxative, but I don't know why.

QUESTION — Alice Steere, Chepachet, RI, would like the recipe for the gravy McDonald's serves on its biscuits and gravy around the Columbus, Ohio area.

QUESTION — Marion Steger, Groton, N.Y., would like the recipes for Aunt Effie's Hillsborough Moist Apple Nut Layer Cake with butterscotch frosting and the Turn-Of-The Century Cake.

QUESTION — Linda McCuean, New Galilee, writes that her 15-year-old son eats breakfast cereal like there is no tomorrow. She would like a recipe to transform plain shredded wheat cereal into the frosted variety.

QUESTION — Susan Howard, Mt. Pleasant Mills, would like a recipe for lemon poppy seed muffins made with sour cream such as those served by Kathryn Flint's Restaurant in Jim Thorpe.

QUESTION — An Elizabethtown reader would like a sand tart cookie recipe that uses sour cream and egg yolks. She said the recipe had appeared in this paper several years ago. Did anyone cut out the recipe so that they can send it in for us to reprint?

QUESTION — Linda Modica, Asbury, N.J., would like a recipe for the thick custard filling used in the extra large eclairs sold at an Amish stand at the Meadowbrook Market in Leola.

QUESTION — Joan St. Germain, Attleboro, MA., would like a recipe for almond poppy seed muffins.

QUESTION — Tina Rzucidlo, Cochranville, would like a recipe for a batter to fried chicken that tastes similar to Kentucky Fried Chicken, original flavor.

QUESTION — Carolyn Norwood, Irwin, writes that her husband recently returned from a trip to Chicago and declared that Spinach Pie was the only pie worth eating. She suspects that it contained eggs and cheeses, but he doesn't think so. She would prefer a lowfat, no cholesterol recipe for Spinach Pie if it is available.

QUESTION — A Dayton, VA. reader would like to know how to keep a pumpkin cake roll from cracking when it is unrolled after cooling.

QUESTION — Mrs. Glenn Roller, Spring Grove, would like a recipe for pumpkin egg custard and for Ted Rolls.

QUESTION — Norma Eckard, Hanover, would like a recipe for onion bread, which uses yeast and is soft and moist in texture.

QUESTION — Donna Zimmerman, Frenchville, would like a recipe for cooking oxtail.

QUESTION — J. Waring Stinchcomb, Suitland, Md., would like a dessert recipe that uses a cut-up yellow cake for a bottom layer. Pudding, fruit such as cherries or blueberries, and whipped cream are used on top with possibly some other ingredients.

QUESTION — Dotty Gaul, Glenmopre, is looking for a recipe for cinnamon twists that taste similar to those sold in Pomeroy's former tea room in Harrisburg. It is a soft, sweetened bread dough with cinnamon and granulated sugar.

QUESTION — Lynette Keaton, Accord, N.Y., would like a recipe for ginger snaps (that snap, not the soft variety).

QUESTION — Lynette Keaton, Accord, N.Y., would like a recipe to make cornbeef from venison.

QUESTION — Ginny Eaton, Ontario, N.Y., would like a recipe for Reuben Dip, which is used with pumpernickel bread.

QUESTION — A reader would like recipes for using butterscotch morsels.

QUESTION — B.D. Hutschenreuter, Airville, would like a recipe to make a spice similar to Spatina.

QUESTION — B.D. Hutschenreuter, Airville, would like a recipe for bread or cake baked in a large mouth mason jar.

QUESTION — Shirley Martin, Orbisonia, would like a recipe for cup cheese and other good cheese recipes.

QUESTION — This is not a question pertaining to cooking, but Hank and Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, thought some of our readers might know how to help them. The Schwoerers are senior citizens, but when Hank was young, his parents gave him a spring tonic, which had sulfur and molasses in it. Does anyone know the proportions and the type of sulfur used?

QUESTION — Linda Horning, Narvon, would like a recipe for crab cakes.

Pepper Cabbage

Medium head cabbage
Red and green peppers
1 cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
¼ cup water

Pot Pie Dough

4 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
2¼ cups flour
Beat together eggs, salt, butter, and flour until stiff dough (similar to pie crust). Divide dough into two parts. Roll out dough until ⅛ -inch thickness, cut in pot pie squares, drop into boiling chicken or beef broth with seasonings. Potatoes, celery, onion, and carrots may be added.

ANSWER — Thanks to Georgia Bond, Gandeeville, W.V., for sending a recipe for hominy, which a reader had requested. Hominy is a traditional Southern vegetable made from dried and whole-kernel field corn, not from sweet corn. Georgia's parents made hominy by this method, but Georgia couldn't locate the recipe. She contacted her county extension office, and after many hours of searching, they located the following recipe. Georgia also writes that she appreciates the recipes from the readers. She had been getting to the point where it was hard to fix a meal. She writes: now I can go through the recipes and have a meal in no time. Or, I can have a brunch, Ladies Luncheon or a lovely tea in no time at all.

Hominy

Plan on the rough ratio of 1 cup dried corn to produce 4 cups of canned hominy; this swelling takes place during precooking before it is packed in jars.

Hulling and precooking: In an enameled kettle, dissolve 4 tablespoons household lye in 8 quarts water; add 8 cups dried field corn. Boil 30 minutes; let stand 20 minutes. Drain; wash off lye with several hot water rinses; cool by rinsing in cold water. Work off the hulls and dark tips of the kernels by rubbing the hominy or washing it vigorously in a colander. When hulls and tips are removed, boil it in fresh water to cover for 5 minutes; drain; repeat four times (totaling 25 minutes of boiling in five fresh waters). After last repeat, cook in fresh water until kernels are soft, about 45 minutes. Drain and pack hot.

Fill jars leaving ½ inch headroom. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pints, 1 teaspoon salt to quarts. Add boiling water, leaving ½ -inch of headroom; adjust lids. Pressure-process at 10 pounds for 60 minutes; quarts for 70 minutes.

Warnings about lye: Lye is a highly caustic alkaline compound that can become activated, burning and eating deeply into human skin. Antidote for searing contact: slosh immediately with cold water, follow with boric acid solution or vinegar.

Make sure that you buy household lye suitable for use with food. It must not contain aluminum, nitrates, or stabilizers. Use only enameled or granite ware kettles. Never use aluminum.

Veal

Veal Cutlets with Plum Sauce

1 pound veal cutlets, cut ⅛ to ¼ inch thick
4 ripe purple plums, halved and pitted
½ cup port wine
1 tablespoon each, mango chutney and sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt

Cut 2 plums into 8 wedges each; reserve. Chop remaining plums. Place chopped plums and wine in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Meanwhile, place each veal cutlet on flat surface. Cover with waxed paper and flatten with bottom of saucepan, mallet or cleaver to ⅛ inch thick; reserve. Place cooked plum mixture in blender container or food processor fitted with a steel blade. Add chutney and sugar, cover and process 15 to 20 seconds. Return mixture to saucepan; add reserved plum wedges. Cook, covered over low heat 5 to 7 minutes. Meanwhile, heat heavy nonstick frying pan over medium high heat 3 minutes. Quickly cook cutlets, 3 to 4 at a time, 1 minute or to desired degree of doneness, turning once. Remove veal to warm platter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Serve with warm plum sauce. Serves-4.

Sauteed Veal Slices with Leeks and Zinfandel Cream

1¼ pound boneless veal loin, trimmed and cut into 8 (2 ounce) slices
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1 medium leek (about 6 ounces), cleaned, trimmed and cut on a bias julienne style
½ cup white Zinfandel wine
⅔ cup heavy cream
¼ teaspoon each, salt and white pepper
Red raspberries

Pound veal loin slices to ½ inch thickness. Dredge slices in flour. Cook veal, half at a time, in butter, in 10 inch nonstick skillet over medium heat until lightly browned and cooked through, about 6 minutes; turn once. Transfer veal to platter; keep warm. Add leeks to skillet and cook 30 seconds over medium heat. Add wine; cook over high heat to reduce by half, about 1 minute. Add cream, salt and pepper. Simmer 5 minutes. Spoon sauce over veal slices. Garnish with raspberries. Servings-4,

Veal Meatballs with Buttermilk Sauce

1 pound ground veal
1 cup soft bread crumbs (about 2 slices bread)
1 cup buttermilk, divided
2 green onions, finely chopped
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
Vegetable oil
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup chicken broth
¼ teaspoon each dried dill weed and paprika

Combine ground veal, bread crumbs, ¼ cup buttermilk, onions, salt and pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Shape into 12 meatballs. Brush 15½ x 10½ x 1 inch baking pan lightly with oil. Arrange meatballs in pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until meatballs are cooked through, about 20 minutes, turning after 10 minutes. Meanwhile, in medium saucepan, stir together flour and broth until smooth. Stir in remaining ¾ cup buttermilk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Stir in dill and paprika. Add meatballs to sauce; heat through. Servings-4.

Cook's Question

French Toast

2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, optional

Blend thoroughly. Quickly dip bread in egg mixture one piece at a time, just until moistened. Fry in hot skillet on each side until golden brown. Serve immediately with syrup or jelly.

Quick Pancake Syrup

1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon maple flavoring

Combine sugar, water, and cornstarch in a saucepan. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add 1 teaspoon maple flavoring. Serve.

Sweet Roll Dough

1 package yeast
½ cup warm water
½ cup warm milk
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3½ to 4 cups flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Stir in milk, sugar, shortening, salt, egg, and 2 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Mix in enough flour to make dough easy to handle. Turn onto floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic (about 5 minutes). Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double (about 1½ hours). Punch down and use with the following recipe.

Cinnamon Rolls

½ of sweet roll dough
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Roll dough very thin into triangle shape. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Roll up tightly. Pinch edge of dough to seal well. Cut into pieces about 1 inch wide. Place slightly apart in a greased round or square pan. Let rise until double (40 minutes). Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Spread with glaze while warm.

Glaze: Mix together until smooth:

1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Fireplace, Bake-Oven Cooking

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Classes in open-hearth fireplace cooking and bake oven baking will be held at the Heritage House Museum, 43 East High Street, Elizabethtown.

The bake oven baking class will be held on Sunday, March 14 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the recreated 1847 squirrel-tail bake oven at the museum. Cost of the class is $30 for non-members and $25 for members.

Tom Martin will instruct both classes. Martin, from Strasburg, has studied his art throughout the Northeast and taught at a variety of museums and other historic sites. Currently, he offers classes at the Landis Valley Museum and the Heritage House Museum.

After learning about wood, building the fire, preparing and either cooking or baking the food, students will partake in a hearty, flavorful fireplace meal or sample the wonderful baked items.

Throughout the day, instructor Martin will offer entertaining bits of folklore and cultural information about our ancestors.

An additional class will be held on Sunday, April 18 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. This class will be an advanced version of either fireplace cooking or bake oven baking depending on enrollment. The charge for this class is the same as above. Martin will also instruct this class.

There is limited class space; and each class will be filled on a first come-first serve basis. To preregister, send a check along with your name, address, telephone number, and the class you wish to attend to: Elizabethtown Preservation Associates, 220 Anchor Road, Elizabethtown, PA 17022.

The Heritage House Museum and Information Center is a non-profit, educational corporation supported by memberships, donations, grants, and fund-raising projects. Its goal is to provide educational, historical, and cultural experiences for the public.

Heritage House is open every week during the following hours: Thursday, 12-5; Friday, 9-5; Saturday, 9-11:30.

Farm Women
Berks Society 6

Berks County Society of Farm Women, Group #6 held their January luncheon meeting at the M&M Shop in Oley. The by-laws and constitution were read by the president, Pearl Hoffman. Ten members answered the roll call question "What is your New Year's resolution?" The members were given project sheets to be completed in the month of February.

Three non-perishable items for the Greater Berks Food Bank shall be brought to the March meeting. Naomi Mest will serve on the auditing committee in place of Sallie Hauseman, who is recuperating from surgery. County board news was reported by the president. After the business meeting, members were given a guided tour of "The Shop," on the Oley Turnpike Road by the proprietor, Tom Bainbridge. The February 16 meeting will be in the home of Erma Bauer, Basket Rd., Oley.

Profit from winter lime application

- Winter's frozen ground conditions reduce soil compaction during spreading.
- Freezing and thawing helps distribute the lime through the soil to correct pH.

Seventh Graders Find Fun Way To Learn About Nutrition

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Students at Mechanicsburg Area Intermediate School are finding a fun way to learn about nutrition. The youth are using a special scale—The Sentron Food Analysis Superscare—for a hands-on experience with the nutrient value of foods. They weight ingredients before adding them to a recipe and in the process learn how much fat, fiber, carbohydrate, and protein are in the food.

Tony Holtzman thinks that, "The machine is great. It makes you want to go to home economics class!"

Two recipes for muffins—Newfangled Whole-Wheat Corn Muffins and Traditional Corn Muffins were analyzed using the scale. Last semester, 90 seventh graders in Mrs. Rutherford's home economics classes used the scale.

The machine works by weighing ingredients for foods and then analyzing the grams of fat, fiber, calories, and other nutrients found in the recipe. It draws from a memory of 1,200 food items and then displays the calculations on the front of the scale.

Dana Lyons used the scale as part of a display at the Capital City Mall in the fall. She showed people the composition of nutrients in both cantaloupe and apples. She thought it was interesting to compare the fiber in a medium apple with the fiber in applesauce. The apple won for fiber content.

Dana thinks that the scale is "good for people with dietary problems and would be easy for them to use." She likes it because," you can see what's in everything."

Students liked learning about calorie differences and were surprised how the number of calories could vary within different recipes. Adam Maclay liked learning about the science behind nutrition. He even changed his mind about some things he thought were healthy after using the scale. He found it a fun way to find out about facts.

Mrs. Rutherford provides the learning experience for her students as part of a unit on The Dietary Guidelines. They learn about sugar and fiber in seventh grade. Making muffins and evaluating their nutritional value fits perfectly into the unit.

In general, using this activity "weighed" well with the students. They liked learnhing about the foods first hand without using a chart. They also were using math and writing skills in the process. Here is a recipe for Newfangled Whole-Wheat Corn Muffins for you to try at home. Compare this with your favorite recipe at home for the fat and sugar content. Try it with your family!

Newfangled Whole-Wheat Corn Muffins
8 Muffins

⅔ cup Yellow cornmeal
⅔ cup Whole-wheat flour
1 Tablespoon Sugar
2 teaspoons Baking powder
¼ teaspoon Salt
⅔ cup Skim Milk
1 Egg, beaten
2 Tablespoons Corn Oil

Plus extra corn oil for greasing muffin tins.

1. Preheat oven to 400 F.
2. Grease 8-muffin tin with corn oil.
3. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly.
4. Mix milk, egg, and oil. Add to dry ingredients.
5. Stir until dry ingredients are just moistened. Batter will be lumpy.
6. Fill muffin tins ⅔ full.
7. Bake until lightly browned, about 20 minutes.

Adam Maclay weighs the bowls on the scale to get an accurate measurement. The instrument is very sensitive. Just blowing across the scale changes the numbers shown.

Gardening With Vegetable Scrapes

As a child, you can learn quite a bit about wintertime gardening with vegetable scraps. Sweet potatoes, avocados, citrus, and carrot and pineapple tops all make interesting indoor plants.

Orange seeds are one of the most enjoyable to plant even though it takes a few weeks for them to sprout. Healthy plants have dark, shiny green leaves. Some citrus plants will have thorns. Choose plump seeds and don't let them dry out.

Carrot foliage is a favorite because it's so ferny and delicate. Start with the top half-inch of the carrot, with the leaf stalks removed. Thses slices will grow leaves sitting in a saucer of water or buried slightly in damp sand. Give them good light. Carrot tops will never root. Enjoy the foliage and then compost the whole deal.

Sweet potatoes are interesting because they know up from down. Place one in a glass of water wrong side up and nothing happens. You can't fool with Mother Nature. The "top" is the rounded part of the sweet potato, and the "bottom" is tapered, and usually scarred. This is the area from which new roots will develop when placed in water. By the way, some sweets are treated with a sprouting inhibitor, so it's best to experiment with ones that are already beginning to sprout. Keep the sweet potato in the dark until roots form. Then bring the plant into the light. When the root system is well developed, you'll be able to put the plant in soil if you want.

I think the best thing about an avocado is that you can get a house plant from it. The roots don't do well growing in containers, though, so it's a mistake to get emotionally attached. But for a few years, you'll have a bushy or even tall plant with big, lush, green leaves.

This year, I'm going to grow a miniature "hedge" of turf grass on corn cobs. Soak the cob in water and sprinkle with grass seed. Place the cobs upright in a container with water in the bottom and stand back.

Mouse Trivia

The house mouse - Mus musculus - came to the western hemisphere with the early settlers. It is a world-wide pest, living in all climates and settings. Mus can survive outdoors year round, but, in the search for shelter, houses are often invaded. There the creatures may make a real nuisance of themselves foraging for food and nesting materials and creating a mess, causing destruction (not to mention mental trauma) in the process.

The typical house mouse problem is best solved with traps, the simple snap trap being the preferred weapon. Mice usually eat seeds and grain but are likely to choose foods high in fat, protein or sugar if available. So peanut butter, nutmeats, chocolate, bacon, marshmallows and dried fruit make good baits. The traps must be placed with the trigger end against a wall or stationary object. To increase chances of success, use two traps side by side at each location and space traps not more than 6 feet apart. Mice (unlike rats) are usually not leery of new objects in their environment.

There are other types of effective traps on the market (e.g. "one way" box traps, glue boards). But they have the disadvantage that once the animals are caught they must be "dispatched" in a separate operation.

- weighs 2/5-4/5 oz. and eats about 1/10 oz. of food per day.
- needs little or no free water to survive.
- females may have 5-10 litters per year; average litter is 5-6 young.
- produces 36,000 droppings per year (no wonder they make such a mess).
- can climb electric wires and almost any rough vertical surface including weathered sheet metal.
- can gnaw through lead and aluminum sheeting, wood, rubber, vinyl and concrete block.
- can jump up to 18 inches and enter through openings as small as 1/4 inch — no wonder it's difficult to keep them out!

At White Hall, People Find What They Need And Want

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

WHITE HALL (Mifflin Co.) — On a map it says Menno, but everyone around knows it as White Hall — the cluster of 20 to 25 homes located halfway between Belleville and Allensville on Route 655 in Mifflin County.

According to Harvey L. Yoder, who is farmer, storeowner, and local historian, you can ask the oldest person around and he or she will remember the White Hall Store.

Built in 1822, the White Hall Store has served, at different times, to supply folks with mail service and essential goods, services of a Justice of the Peace, kerosene for lanterns, and water for horses.

The original structure still stands and is still stocked with essentials, and, Yoder plans to keep it that way.

"That's why I bought it, for historical reasons," Yoder said, pointing out the 170-year-old worn, wooden floors, large glass windows and tall narrow front doors.

Yoders didn't want to see it torn down and is going through the process of having the store registered as a historical building. Original hand hewn logs still support the structure, mortised and pinned together.

It was a prominent place of business through the years, but business declined after the advent of shopping centers. But Yoder knows what area families need and want, and he supplies it — grocery goods, bulk foods, hardware items, cooking utensils, cleaning supplies, dairy supplies, animal health products, men's coveralls, shoes, black lunch boxes, and more.

But Yoder's biggest selling items are lunch meats, cheeses, Swann's ice cream, and whoopie pies.

"We sold 85 hams and turkey hams last year, sliced, whole, and in cuts," Yoder said. He also tries to offer fresh baked whoopie pies and half moon pies, but the 600 whoopie pies neighbor Sylvia Byler bakes each week go fast.

Being a dairy farmer and owning the White Hall store offers Yoder other advantages. It's conveniently located between Sunnyside-Vu and Bony Brook, two dairy farms his daughters operate. Daughter Edith tends the White Hall store while wife Nancy runs the Sunnyside Book Store on the home farm. With 10 children, there is plenty of work to be done and Yoder begins each day at 4 a.m.

After milking starts on the 50-60 cow herds at each farm, Yoder opens the White Hall Store at 6 a.m., then meets the family back home for 7:00 breakfast. By 8:00, everyone is off to their work and Yoder spends the rest of the day filling in where needed — tending cows, fixing machinery, getting supplies — generally making sure everyone else's jobs are running smoothly.

It's a full-time job, Yoder admits, but he still finds time to talk to passing tourists who stop by the store on their way through Big Valley.

Although he fields curious questions about local lifestyles, markets, antique shops, barn fires, and books (such as Rosanna of the Amish), Yoder has no hope for commercialization. He expresses the community's feelings to save what lies between the mountains — prime farmland, privacy, and tight communities.

The historian in Yoder wants to preserve the rich local history and actively support the Mennonite Heritage Center and the Kish Valley Historical Society. His own collection includes Bony Brook, the farm bought by Yoder's great-great-grandfather.

Working two dairy farms and two stores keeps Yoder busy and he spends the evenings he can working to collect historical facts and artifacts.

But through time, some things are lost to change. Although White Hall Store still houses the old kerosene barrels and pumps that were once a working part of the store, gone are the old watering trough and the store's pot-bellied stove.

And there's something else missing at the White Hall Store — the loafers bench. For Yoder, there's no time for that.

Edith Yoder welcomes customers to the White Hall Store. The original 27" doors are one of the many historical reasons her father Harvey L. Yoder bought the store.

Forage Testing Built On Farmer Satisfaction

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

JENNERSTOWN (Somerset Co.)—Verdean and Alan Keyser used to be in the blueberry raising business. They raised four acres of them for the market. Although Verdean helped her husband, she also worked in an environmental laboratory.

She had a degree from Juniata College having majored in both chemistry and biology.

One day she was asked by a farmer, "Do you suppose you could test forage?"

Verdean recalls, " I didn't even know what the word meant." But the question started the pair thinking about the possibility of forage testing. They mauled over the idea. That was in the year 1982.

"We thought this would be a little venture on the side," said Verdean.

Alan added, "It was a good time because farmers were getting into computer."

So in 1984 the doors of Skyview Laboratory opened at the present Route 30 location, in an ordinary-looking older house that was adequate to accommodate the laboratory and its future expansion.

Verdean was well-educated with new information gathered during her trip to the state of Iowa to study soil-testing.

Alan's business school background coupled with his electrician experience in the service, enabled him to manage administration, while Verdean was in charge of the chemistry side of the new venture. Alan was also a local farmboy, who grew up on a nearby beef farm, compared to his city-girl wife, who was a native of Jeannette.

At first the two began the work day at 4 a.m. ending around 8 p.m. They managed during those hours to complete about 10 forage tests. Now they can perform 140 tests daily. Every detail about the forage is electronically recorded in the computer at each station. No hand writing is necessary.

With completion of each stage of testing, the information is sent to the main station terminal and permanently filed.

If he has a computer in his business, the farmer can receive his forage report in its entirety, 24 hours a day. Or he can locate specific information in minutes.

A simple telephone call to Skyview's 800 toll-free number is also an option for those without home computers. And some farmers opt for the facsimile immediately to receive a whole or partial report about his forage. A hard copy is also mailed to him.

"We have a network system that can go anywhere in the world," says Alan about the high-tech Skyview Lab.

The Keysers, who shun marketing their business because they want to control steady growth, said having immediate access to the report of his forage contents is crucial for the farmer. They said he needs the report while feeding that particular forage to his livestock. It does little good, they said, to see the results arrive in the mailbox when the feed is already gone and he is switching to another type of forage.

"Service is of utmost importance," said Alan. "We don't take on any new work unless the lab is capable of not sacrificing the work."

They are a fully independent operation and belong to the Council of Independent Laboratories.

Including the Keysers, the nine Skyview Lab employees each work an eight-hour day five days a week. One of them starts his day at 4 a.m. He's the guy who codes each sample upon its arrival at Skyview. He also observes the presence of other materials in the sample and records his findings prior to its further analysis. A number is also assigned to the sample.

At the computer is Verdean Keyser with her husband, Alan Keyser. They own and operate Skyview Laboratory, a wet-chemistry lab in Jennerstown.

The wet-chemistry lab analysis of the forage will reveal moisture content, protein, fiber levels and minerals. Thus, the farmer's nutritionist can tell him what he needs to adjust according to the test report. The farmer may have what he needs in the grain he's harvested on his own land. If so, he's financially ahead, said the Keysers, since he won't need to purchase from an outside source.

"It's really an exciting field," said Verdean, who obviously enjoys her work. She illustrates the importance of a balanced livestock diet to that of a human. "It's like people who get sick when their diet is out of balance," she said. "It can affect breeding or milk feeding." She said a mistake in the feeding program can cause very serious problems for the cow's health, thus affecting milk production. "You need to be within one percent of accuracy in a program," she said.

That's why in an emergency, Skyview will occasionally do a rush test for a farmer. If a high milk-producing cow suddenly develops a health problem the farmer wants to find the source fast. So they also work with the veterinarian.

The Keysers say they have met farmers who were disgusted with the length of time it took to receive their forage analyses from some other laboratories. "What we improved on was the time frame for farmers," they said.

Since their only marketing device is good old word-of-mouth advertising, the lab serves customers in 14 states including Pennsylvania, Maine, Florida, Indiana, California and those in-between. A close association with several colleges, such as Cornell University and Penn State ensures them of having access to the latest discoveries and most recently develop tests for forages. Another of their contacts is with Bolten Center, the veterinary school, located at Kennett Square.

They also speak at different colleges and have a conference room above the actual laboratory.

Especially stressed at Skyview is the environmental safety of the chemicals used in the lab, a major health concern in today's world. Not only are some of them (chemicals) recycled, but there is on-site waste treatment. Nor are any of them on the hazardous chemicals list, according to Verdean.

With the Skyview network of users the laboratory serves as the information base for the feeding programs of some two million cows. The peak testing season starts in September and ends in December when new crops are stored and farms need programs done. In the slower months, the lab might run only 20 tests a day.

But on those busy days when more than 140 tests are run, the convenience of the computer modem can't be denied. Instruments at each of the four lab workstations are read directly into the computer making the results immediately available. The Keysers say that's high-technology stuff and a big responsibility for a small business in a small community.

The Keysers have two children in high school and junior high who are also getting involved in their parents' business.

Lab technician, Sherry Yoder, is looking for the amounts of potassium and phosphorous in the sample she is testing at the Skyview Laboratory in Jennerstown, Pa.

Workshop For Teen Entrepreneurs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — It's not too late for interested teens and adults to register for the multi-state Youth in Business Symposium: "Empowering Teen Entrepreneurs."

The two-day event will be held February 18-19 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel at the Inner Harbor in Baltimore, Maryland. It's sponsored by the 4-H component of the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources, and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The symposium agenda, which includes workshops, panel discussions and exhibits of teen businesses and model youth business programs, is divided into three tracks:

Track 1: Getting on with Business will give teen entrepreneurs access to the tools and knowledge they need to enhance their businesses and increase profitability. Workshops and seminars will focus on such issues as the principles of strategic business planning and strategies for overcoming obstacles.

Track 2: Getting Into Business will introduce teens considering starting their own businesses to the concept of entrepreneurship, the requirements for success, and the realistic opportunities available. Sessions will include such topics as how to start a business, how to sell an idea and where to find money to get started.

Track 3: Getting Down to Business is designed for professional youth workers, volunteers and parents. It will provide them with the information they need to plan, organize, implement and evaluate youth entrepreneurial programs. They will learn about principle-centered leadership development, opening the doors of the small business world, and the pros and cons of collaborative community-based youth enterpreneurship programs.

The advance registration fee for the conference is $85 for youth and $145 for adults. This fee covers all symposium sessions, handouts, two luncheons, a dessert reception on February 18, continental breakfast on February 19, and a T-shirt. Lodging costs are not included. Single-day registration fees are $55 and $85 for youth and adults, respectively.

For more information or to register for the 1993 Youth in Business Symposium: "Empowering Teen Entrepreneurs," contact Edith Williams, Extension 4-H specialist, at (301) 403-4250 or Bill Clark, Baltimore Extension 4-H agent, at (410) 396-4906.

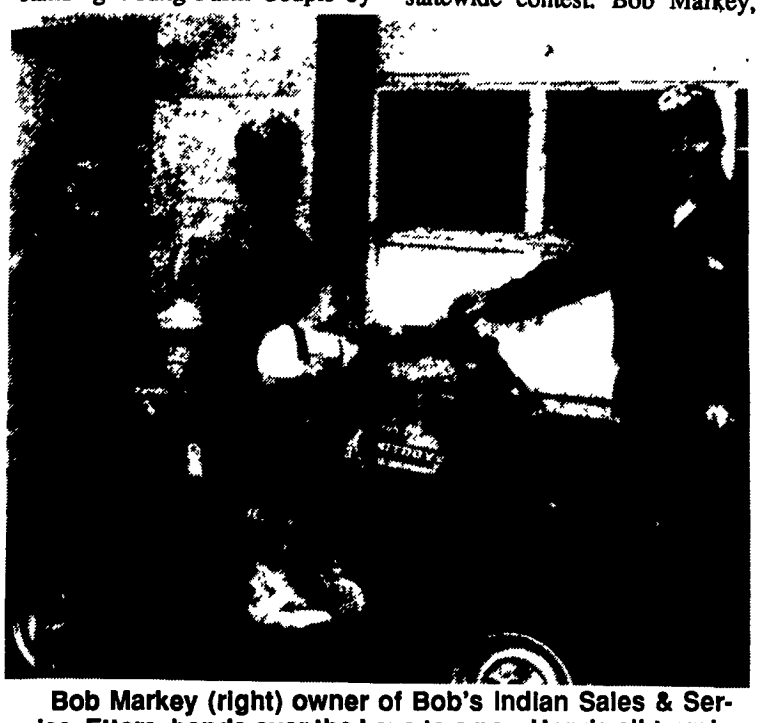
Outstanding Young Farmer Couple Wins All- Terrain Vehicle

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Steve and Becky Gross of Manchester, York County are having an eventful new year as the result of being chosen the Outstanding Young Farm Couple by the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) last November.

On December 23, just in time for Christmas, they picked up one of their prizes as winners of the statewide contest. Bob Markey, owner of Bob's Indian Sales and Service, Etters, handed over the keys to a new Honda Fourtrax two-wheel drive TRX 300 from the American Honda Motor Company. The all-terrain vehicle is "made for work" according to Markey. Steve and Becky can already attest to that as owners of a three-wheel ATV which was purchased second-hand and now needs repairs. They will be using the new ATV for "everything from planting timothy seed, riding fence, and rounding up cattle," Steve said. The prize from Honda also included helmets and safety training.



Bob Markey (right) owner of Bob's Indian Sales & Service, Etters, hands over the keys to a new Honda all-terrain vehicle to the winners of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association's Outstanding Young Farmer award, Steve and Becky Gross with son, Nevin, of Manchester, York County.

On January 7, Steve and Becky boarded a jet in Harrisburg for a week in southern California to attend the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation. PFA is a member of the nationwide organization which represents over 4 million farm and ranch families. While in California, the Grosses will be touring San Diego and Los Angeles and attending the American Farm Bureau convention in Anaheim. They will be representing PFA at Young Farmer and Rancher activities during the annual meeting.

Steve and Becky Gross were selected as statewide winners of PFA's Outstanding Young Farm Couple contest as a result of their exceptional business skills and leadership abilities. The award is presented annually to a farmer or farm couple under age 30. Steve has expanded his beef operation to 165 head of cattle after starting in 1989 with the purchase of three Holstein beef calves. He is the Young Farmer and Rancher Committee chairman for the York County Farmers' Association. Becky was recently elected vice president of Penn's Agri-Women. Steve and Becky are also the parents of a one-year-old son.

Lancaster To Feature Food, Photography At Annual Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Cooperative Extension will hold its 80th annual meeting on Thursday, February 11, at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. The evening's festivities will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a one-hour finger-food smorgasbord. The smorgasbord will feature a wide variety of foods grown or processed in Lancaster County.

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. and features the works of internationally known Lancaster County photographer, Grant Heilman. The slide show, "A Portrait: The Mid-Atlantic Farmlands," featuring the diversity of agriculture and peoples in Lancaster County, will be presented by Heilman's representative. The second presentation for the evening is Dr. Charles Krueger, associate dean for Research for Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences, who will be speaking on, "How Research and Extension Work Together." He will explain how research information gained at University Park, University Research Farms, and local farmer research plots is transferred through Cooperative Extension to farmers and homeowners throughout Pennsylvania.

Cost is $3 per person. Tickets are available from Extension board members or the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office at 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601 (717) 394-6851.

Diet Choices Made Easier By New Food Labels

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It used to be that the only reading done a grocery store was at the checkout counter where all the magazines and tabloids are kept. But health conscious Americans are reading in the aisles these days, as they study and compare the nutritional labels on food. Because a well balanced diet is an important factor in health maintenance and disease prevention, experts say it's more important than ever to know what's in the foods we eat.

If you've an avid food label reader, then you should know that the U.S. Government recently changed the requirements for labels on packaged foods. The new labels will have more detailed nutrient information and will allow you to compare that information to government recommendations for a healthy diet.

Food companies have been given until May 1994 to relabel their products, but new labels could start appearing on foods as early as this year. Here's a rundown of key changes to look for:

• Serving Sizes. On new labels, serving sizes will have to reflect typical consumption habits. As an example, a 12-ounce can of cola will be considered one serving. Currently, some labels indicate that a 12-ounce can represents two six-ounce servings. Critics point to that as an example of how serving size information can be used to mislead consumers.

• Calories. Many products now advertised as low calorie may also be high in unwanted fat. So, in addition to listing the number of calories per serving of a particular product, new labels will also list how many of those calories are from fat.

• Nutrients. Like the old labels, the new ones will still list the amounts of nutrients--such as fats, carbohydrates, sodium, protein and fiber. But the new labels put this information in the context of a recommended daily diet of 2,000 calories. A typical current label might show that a single serving of macaroni and cheese has 30 milligrams (mg) of cholesterol. New labels will go a step further by indicating that 30mg of cholesterol is 10% of the suggested daily intake of cholesterol for a person on a 2,000 calorie diet.

• Daily Intake Table. All new labels will feature a newly required table suggesting daily intakes of various nutrients based on diets of both 2,000 and 2,500 calories. For example, the table will show that the recommended daily intake of total fat is 65 grams or less for a diet of 2,000 calories, and 85 grams or less for a diet of 2,500 calories.

The government's daily diet recommendations are not hard and fast rules, but they do represent a good general guideline. Food and Drug Administrator David Kessler says consumers should use the information to "fine tune" their diets. Health experts say to set up a diet specific to your individual needs you should contact your personal physician.

New Definitions

In addition to beefing up food labels, the government has standardized definitions for commonly used food packaging terms like "light," "low fat," "fat free," "cholesterol free" and "high fiber." Under the new rules, only food products that have less than 3 grams of fat for every 50 gram serving can be called "low fat." A food must have less than 0.5 grams of fat per serving--and have no added ingredients containing fat or oil--to be labelled fat free.

Exempted from these new rules are restaurant menus. For the time being, restaurants can call their food "light" or "low fat" without having to meet the definitions of these terms that apply to packaged food. But the exemption for restaurant menus may be short-lived. Consumer groups say the exemption is likely to be overtuned in the courts.

Cooking Healthy

The new food labeling rules will allow consumers to make more informed and nutritious shopping choices. But Isabel Hoverman, MD, a trustee with the American Society of Internal Medicine, says selecting healthy foods is only one part of the equation. "Preparing food properly is just as important as choosing the right food," she says.

Dr. Hoverman, an internist in Austin, TX, says steaming, baking, broiling and poaching are health-conscious ways to cook delicious meals. On the other hand, frying food or sauteing it in butter adds unhealthy fat and calories. "It doesn't do much good to carefully select healthy foods if you're going to prepare them in an unhealthy way," says Dr. Hoverman.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Nowadays when I look out the window by my sink I see birds. Most of the year there are flowers like Shasta daisies, larkspur and roses to add joy to my days. However, now I watch juncos, house finches, blue jays and cardinals at our bird feeder.

It is hung on a low limb of our old apple tree. And, I do mean old as I'd guess that it must be 100 years old. Do apple trees get that old? It has been in our meadow long before I knew anything. I do believe that at some point the center may have been broken and two limbs grew from each side. When we planned a driveway to our new house, a son suggested that it be a circle one around the tree and that is what we did.

This fall and winter our fields have been filled with sea gulls. I'm hoping that they are eating weed seeds and not good seeds. I wonder why these large white and grey birds travel so far from the coast line.

Recently we visited my husband's friend who lives quite a distance from our home and so we seldom see him. They were friends at Penn State more than 50 years ago.

The reason that I am mentioning this is that I recognized similarities in their make-up. They both spend a lot of their leisure time studying maps. They read them like others read books. Another similarity is that their wives agreed their favorite plaything in their new homes was the garage door opener. Even if they come home for 10 minutes and leave again, up and down and up and down goes the garage door. Maybe their likenesses forged a friendship in the first place.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Rough Riders 4-H

The Rough Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club held their first meeting of 1993 on January 7 at 7 p.m.

New officers were installed and read the 4-H Creed. Officers are president, Gabriel Bowman; vice president, Tami Jones; treasurer, Becky Aukamp; secretary, Tina Henry; news reporter, Jessica Althouse; and newsletter, BriAnne Grumbling.

The next meeting will be held on February 4 at 7 p.m. At this meeting, Becky Preiss, a Boots & Saddles 4-H Club member who went to states in grooming and showmanship, will be speaking to the group.

If you would like more information on the Rough Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club, call John Henry, club leader, at (717) 284-2046.

Adams County 4-H Dairy Club

The Adams County 4-H Dairy Club met at the extension office on Jan. 18.

President Joy Hess called the meeting to order. There were 22 members present. Old and new business was discussed.

Among the new business was a decision to have a meeting with Ken Rainey about starting a Junior Holstein Club in the county.

Four new members were present: Brandy Rhodes and Nathan Rhodes are from Gettysburg. Brandy joined because she thought it would be fun, Nathan joined because he thought it would be fun, and his sister joined. Becky Howard from Littlestown wanted to join to show cows. Kenny Wenger from Littlestown wanted to join to show cows.

The next meeting will be on Feb. 8. at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be about Dairy Bowl experience.

Dairy ProfitMaker

Dairy farmers know the leading contributor to a profitable dairy operation is growing and feeding plenty of high quality alfalfa. Alfalfa is the nation's most important forage.

That's why you will want to join other farmers at a Dairy ProfitMaker seminar coming to your area this winter. It is sponsored by Northrup King and your local Northrup King seed dealer.

- Learn how to calculate the dollar value of higher relative feed value (RFV) forages.
- Get an update on recent research advances and a preview of what's coming from the world's leading forage company.
- Learn about new alfalfa production management strategies.

This Dairy ProfitMaker seminar could be the most important event for you to attend in all of 1993!

 Free Lunch, Drawing For Free Bags Of MultiKing Alfalfa ***

AGENDA

- New directions in alfalfa research
- Economics of high quality hay
- Extra benefits of high RFV varieties

Fourteen Wayne County 4-H capon project members exhibited dressed capons at the recent 4-H capon roundup. Shown in this photo are the three age-group champions. They are, left to right, Chandra Swendsen, Milanville (Calkins Ag), intermediate division champion and grand champion 4-H Capon Exhibit; Mark Nebzydoski, Pleasant Mount (Pleasant Mount Go-Getters), senior division champion; and James Bannon, R R 1 Waymart, (Cherry Ridge), junior divison champion and reserve grand champion 4-H capon exhibit. Dr. Herbert C. Jordan, retired extension associate professor of poultry science at Penn State University, served as judge for the 4-H capon roundup.

Turkey Roundups

The Wayne County 4-H Capon and 4-H Turkey Roundups were held recently at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Courthouse in Honesdale.

Dr. Herbert C. Jordan, retired extension associate professor of poultry science at Penn State University, served as judge.

Chandra J Swendsen, Milanville and a member of the Calkins 4-H Ag Club, was the exhibitor of the grand champion pair of dressed 4-H capons. Chandra's two capons earned a total score of 19.7 out of a possible 20 points.

James W. Bannon, R R 1 Waymart, and a member of the Cherry Ridge 4-H Community Club, was the exhibitor of the reserve grand champion pair of dressed 4-H capons. Jim's two capons earned a total score of 19.3 points out of a possible 20 points.

The average weight of all the 4-H capons presented for judging was 10½ pounds per dressed capon. The 4-H capons are judged on a number of factors, including the overall meatiness of the dressed capon. This includes a wide, thick and long breast, plump and meaty legs and thighs, and a "pleasing-to-the-eye" covering of skin on the dressed capon. Additional factors to consider are the quality of the slaughtering and "dressing" of the capon plus the packaging of the capon in a clean plastic poultry bag. The dressed capons are meant to be presented in "ready-for-the-oven" type of exhibit.

The 4-H Turkey Roundup involved five 4-H members. The turkey exhibits were judged using a scorecard very similar to the one for the 4-H capon roundup.

The results of this 4-H Roundup were blue ribbon, Renee Bannon; red ribbon, Corey Keating, James Bannon and Chad Keating; and white ribbon, Paul Rosengrant.

The 4-H capon and 4-H turkey projects are just two of the 4-H poultry science projects offered by the Pennsylvania 4-H Program and the Wayne County 4-H Program. For additional information about these 4-H projects and others, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension at (717) 253-5970, extension 239 or by visiting the 4-H office, located in the basement of the Wayne County Courthouse in Honesdale.

Airville 4-H Club Achievement Night

The Airville Community 4-H Club held it's annual achievement night at the Pine Grove Church Hall.

The following 4-H members were recognized for their efforts over the past year:

HAPPENINGS

On November 8, eleven Grassland FFA members left to attend the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri. The convention itself was held from November 11 to November 13. The main purpose of the trip was to take part in the many opportunities that the convention offered, such as contests, a career show, motivational speakers and getting to know FFA members from all across the United States in general.

On the way out, the members stopped at places such as the Airforce Museum in Dayton, Ohio, the Indianapolis Speedway, and the St. Louis Arch.

The members that attended were Christine Edwards, Wade Esbenshade, Joel Fox, Justin Good, Kristin Green, Ronda Ringler, Jevon Shirk, Andrea Snader, Kim Thornton, Darrel Weaver, and Neil Wenger who are all juniors at Garden Spot High School.

The Grassland chapter also received a number of awards. Jeff Martin, a recent graduate of Garden Spot, got national recognition for his local tree trimming and removal business. He had been named the Eastern Region Star Agribusinessman earlier in the year, and was in the running for Star Agribusinessman of America. As a finalist, he was recipient of one thousand dollars from the National FFA Organization and a ten day all expense paid trip to Europe. The chapter also received a Gold medal for their outstanding BOAC (Building Our American Communities) project that consisted of building greenhouses for their hydroponics and aquaculture projects, building a fitness trail around Garden Spot High School, building a hiking trail and a stream improvement project. Jason Reifsnyder was also third runner up for the National Volunteerism Award. The chapter received a Bronze medal in the National Chapter Rating Competition.

All in all, the trip proved to be very worthwhile and rewarding for the chapter and its participants.

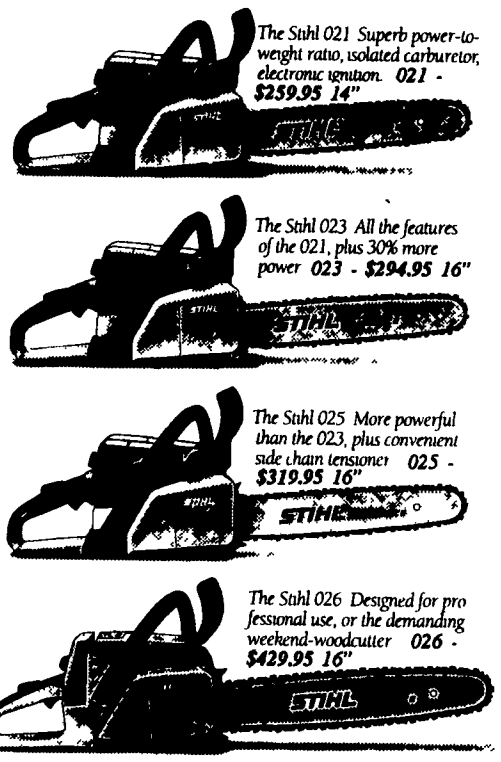
The Chain Saws For People Who Want To Act Like Lumberjacks, Not Work Like Them.



The Stihl 021 Superb power-to-weight ratio, isolated carburetor, electronic ignition. 021 - $259.95 14"

The Stihl 026 Designed for professional use, or the demanding weekend-woodcutter 026 - $429.95 16"

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years.

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind.

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

For The Part Of You That Promised You'd Never Compromise.

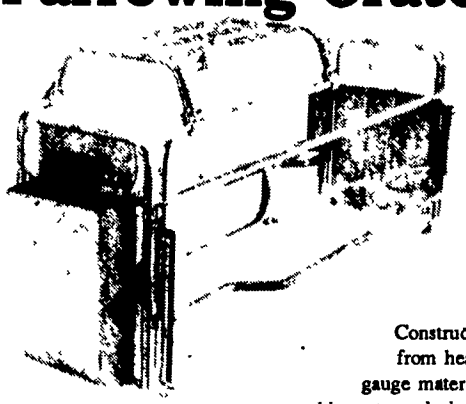
PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

BSM

Model 90 Farrowing Crate



GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.

This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

ONLY THE PRICE IS SMALL.

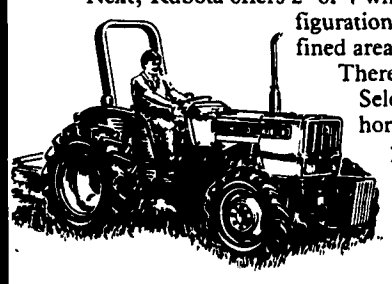
First, they're loaded with standard features. A powerful diesel engine with direct fuel-injection, for example. Wet disc brakes, power steering, hydraulic draft, position and combination implement control.

Next, Kubota offers 2- or 4-wheel drive. Standard or low profile configuration. Even a new, narrower version for confined areas.



There's no small choice of models either. Select from five, offering 44-76 PTO horsepower. You match the right size to your needs.

And like we said, the price is right. Come in to see these new Kubota M-30 tractors today.

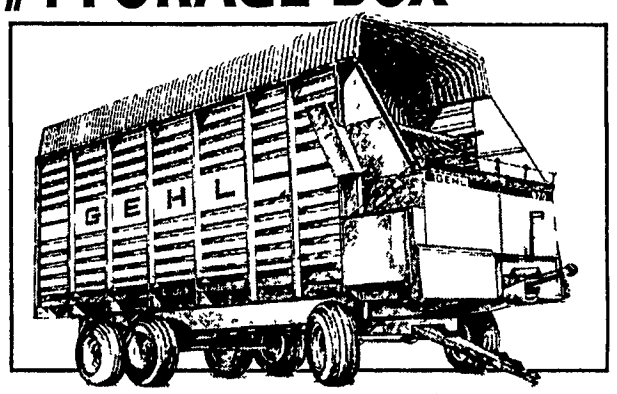
GEHL

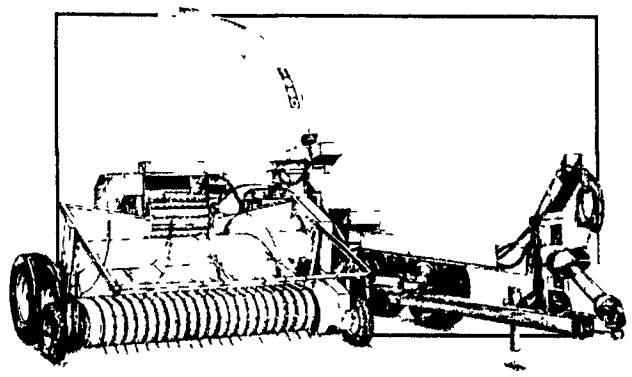
NORTH AMERICA'S #1 FORAGE BOX



Gehl makes the best selling forage box in North America Here's why:

- Five sizes deliver the capacity to match your forage harvesting operation
- 10-Year Warranty against rust through on sides, endgate, stakes and roof
- Wide 23 1/2 inch cross conveyor extends nine inches beyond the box side, for easy positioning to the blower
- Even-Feed third beater has extended tines to break up clumps for smooth crop delivery to the cross conveyor
- Four-speed drive system features #50 roller chain for added durability
- Heavy duty Gehl running gears match the capacity of Gehl forage boxes

CHOP IT DOWN



Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:

- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System – Increase capacity by up to 20% Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading.
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector – Prevents machine damage and hardware disease
- In-head Hydraulic Knife Sharpener – Lets you sharpen knives in the field
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment – Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy
- Three Models To Choose From – Including the largest capacity pull-type forage harvester on the market

FOURTH YEAR

W-L	Competitors
W-L Alfalfa varities are strong producers throughout the life of your stand. You can't afford to settle for less.	If your alfalfa doesn't make it to the fourth year, you've reduced the overall profitability of your crop.

In test after test by public and private researchers, W-L alfalfa yields stack up for profits. For more than 25 years, W-L alfalfa varities have been bred for long stand persistence, quick recovery after cutting, multiple pest resistance and extra leafy, fine-stemmed forage. With proper crop management, you'll have strong fourth-year yields that stack up for a profitable crop.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Young Farmers Hold Family Night

Ammual awards were presented by the Young Farmer organization. Recognized as Tulpehocken Young Farmer members under 30 were William and Laura Lesher. They are part owners of Way-Har Farms and Dairy Store. In the forage contest for hay, David and Linda Nirschl received a plaque for their new seeding of alfalfa. The sample had a nutrient analysis of 23.8 percent crude protein, 26.3 percent acid detergent fiber, and a neutral detergent fiber of 36.8 percent. The second place entry was submitted by Skyline Acres with third place earned by John Stump.

The Hixes received a plaque for the first place forage sample of first cutting alfalfa haylage. The sample had a nutrient analysis of 22.3 percent crude protein, 34.7 percent acid detergent fiber, and a neutral detergent fiber of 42.2 percent. A second place rosette was awarded to Mark Kieffer with third received by Richard and Nelson Troutman.

In the corn yield competition, Merman Manbeck entry yielded 201.14 bushels per acre. A yield of 185.74 bushels per acre was grown by John Brown for a second place award. Third prize was awarded to Samuel Forry for his variety which yielded of 173.15 bushel per acre.

Donald Daub, Daub's Welding, was the recipient of the Honorary Young Farmer Award for his sponsorship of the Program of Work.

Extension Sets Marketing Workshops

FOREST HILL, Md.—The Harford County Commodity Marketing Club and the Extension Service will be sponsoring a three-part series of commodity marketing training sessions. These sessions are designed for both the advanced and beginner commodity produer.

Economic survival in the 1990s will mean farmers will have to be efficient producers, knowing their product's value, costs of production, and markets.

The marketing workshops, and Harford County Marketing Club (which meets bimonthly), present strategies for obtaining the survival skills needed to compete.

The workshops will be held on February 2 and 9 beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the extension office in Forest Hill, Md. The third session, a dinner meeting, will be held in conjunction with the Harford County Mid-Winter Meeting at the McComas Hall at Bel Air Methodist Church in Bel Air at 6:30 p.m. Dinner cost is $10 per person and preregistration for this last session (February 16) is required by February 11.

For more information and to preregister for the February 16 dinner meeting, contact the Harford County Extension Office, (410) 638-3255.

AGCO, Massey Fergusion Announce Joint Distribution

ATLANTA, Ga. — AGCO Corporation (NASDAQ-AGCO) and Massey Ferguson announced the signing of agreements which will appoint AGCO as the exclusive distributor of farm equipment in North America for Massey Ferguson, a unit of Varity Corporation (NYSE-VAT).

At the same time, AGCO and Varity announced that they had also formed a joint venture to acquire substantially all the net assets of Agricredit Acceptance Corporation, a diversified North American equipment finance company now owned by Varity. Through the joint venture, AGCO and Varity will each hold a 50 percent interest in Agricredit.

Upon appointment as Massey Ferguson's North American distributor, AGCO will acquire substantially all of the net assets, primarily dealer accounts receivable and inventories, of Massey Ferguson's North American operations. Together with the Agricredit interest, the total investment by AGCO is estimated at $110 million and will be financed through an expansion of AGCO's current revolving credit facility with ITT Commercial Finance.

R.J. Ratliff, president and chief executive officer of AGCO, commented on the significance of the transactions.

"As a result of these actions, AGCO and Massey Ferguson have created a strong alliance to enhance the presence of Massey Ferguson products in North America, and ensure the distribution, sales support and financial assistance required by dealers and customers in this very competitive marketplace," he said. "Moreover, this is a key step forward in addressing the AGCO strategy of distributing farm equipment under various brand names in as effective a manner as possible."

Victor Rice, chairman and chief executive officer of Varity, also underscored the importance of the alliance between AGCO and Massey Ferguson. "These moves strengthen Masse Ferguson's presence in North America while allowing it to reduce its asset levels," he said. The proceeds received by Varity will be about $110 million and will be used to reduce debt. Rice also noted that the transaction represented a significant step in Varity's previously announced asset divestment program.

Ratliff stated he will propose that an officer of Massey Ferguson be named to the board of directors of AGCO Corporation.

Wool Producers Should File Receipts

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—The Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) reminds wool producers to file their 1992 sales receipts by January 31 so that the documents can be used in determining the national average market price.

Although the deadline for filing receipts to qualify for a 1992 price support payment is March 1, ASCS encourages wool producers to file in January because USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service needs the data in February to compute wool market prices.

"Since national average market prices are the basis for wool payment rates, producers are urged to submit their sales documents to us at least by the end of January," said Ray Brubaker, county executive director.

He reminds producers that "actively engaged in farming" and "person determinations" must be made to be eligible for a payment. Wool producers are also required to certify that they are in compliance with highly erodible land conservation provisions.

"We encourage producers to bring in their sales receipts as soon as possible," Brubaker said.

The new 62 HP Model 5030 Ford tractor is powered by a four-cylinder, 256 cubic inch liquid cooled engine. Customer options include 8x2, 8x8 synchronized shuttle shift, and 16x8 Dual Power synchronized shuttle shift transmissions, cabs, fixed or telescoping ROPS, 8.5 GPM or 14 GPM hydraulics, and up to four hydraulic remotes. The new tractor is available in all purpose or low-profile versions.

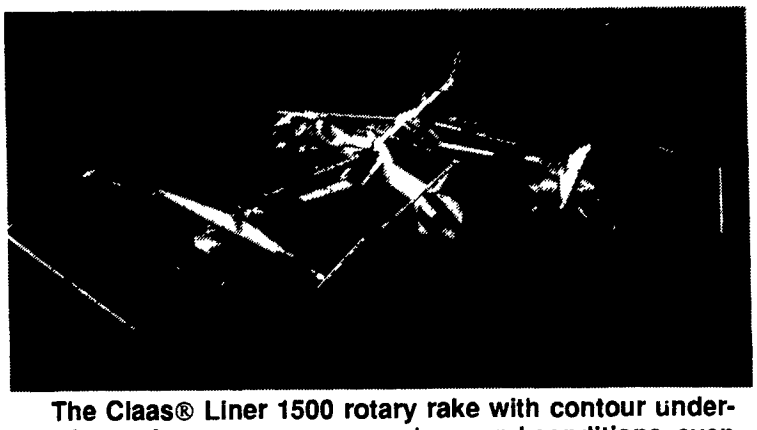
Tractor Available In All-Purpose Design

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The new 62HP Ford Model 5030 diesel tractor is powered by a 256 cubic-inch engine. Designed for all types of operations including landscaping, orchards, specialty farming and farmsteads, the new tractor is available in all-purpose or low-profile design.

A variety of options let "5030" buyers "design" their own new tractor for individual applications, said Ford New Holland Product Manager Dave Dell. He points out the tractor is available in 2WD or 4WD. Drive options include 8x2, 8x8 synchronized shuttle shift, and 16x8 Dual Power synchronized shuttle shift transmissions.

"5030" hydraulics rated at 8.5 GPM to the remotes can be upgraded to more than 14 GPM with closed center remotes for auxiliary hydraulic drive to implements and attachments. Up to four remotes are available. Cabs are available and buyers can choose fixed or telescoping ROPS.

An adjustable suspension seat and the long "5030" wheelbase provide comfortable operator ride. Top-link sensing offers dependable draft control and weight transfer for more traction and better performance. Large electrical capacity improves cold-weather starting and provides ample current for accessories.



The Claas® Liner 1500 rotary rake with contour undercarriage adapts to uneven, rough ground conditions, even at high working speeds to deliver a thorough, clean harvest, increasing yield.

Rake Adapts To Ground Conditions

COLUMBUS, Ind. — The Liner 1500 rotary rake from Claas of America, Inc., with contour undercarriage, adapts to uneven, rough ground conditions, even at high working speeds to deliver a thorough, clean harvest, increasing yield.

It has an adjustable working width up to 21'4", allowing the rake to be adapted to harvester or mower pickup. Transport width is 10'.

Equipped with twin rotors, the 1500 provides a neat, loose windrow to the side while rotor weight compensation with strong Belleville type springs protect the crop. The rotors are driven by double universal joints, permitting the 1500 to be lifted from the tractor seat without disengaging the PTO and allowing operation of one rotor where space is limited. A flow divider ensures that both rotors are raised completely, equally. Each rotor has ten tine arms and each tine carrier has four double tines. Electric height adjustment is optional.

The new Vermeer 8020 Gator Mower, a rugged disc-style hay mowing unit has a cutting width of 10'3" and is capable of operating at speeds up to 8 mph.

Disc-Style Cutter Features Extra Protection

PELLA, Iowa — The new Vermeer 8020 Gator Mower, a rugged disc-style hay mowing unit — featuring solid steel hood protection, heavy-duty side curtains, and an easy-to-maintain drive system — has recently been introduced.

The rugged low profile 1,390-pound unit has a cutting width of- 10'-3" and is capable of operating at speeds up to 8 mph. However, according to Vermeer officials, the major emphasis in the Gator Mower design is operator protection.

"This new Gator Mower combines the cutting efficiency and speed of a quality-built disc-style mower with the kind of operator safety and protection that's sorely needed in today's hay mowing equipment," said Jim VanderWerff, national sales manager of the Vermeer Agricultural Division.

According to VanderWerff, "the Vermeer 8020 Gator Mower is built with a unique folding steel hood that not only provides the operator with complete access to the cutting bed but also an extra measure of protection not found on conventional curtain-only mowers. In addition, Vermeer has put its side curtain material through an extensive puncture testing process. As a result, today all new Gator Mowers come equipped with heavy-duty singleply rubber curtains that actually measure up to 250 percent thicker than those found on competitive units. The replaceable swing-away cutting knives are also heat-tempered, shatter-resistant and reversible," he said.

The Vermeer 8020 is built for aggressive cutting speeds in all kinds of terrain. The adjustable cutter bar features eight counter-rotating, synchronized cutting discs for dependable performance even in wet, trampled, or wiry hay conditions. The entire cutting bed is powered by a continuous through-drive shaft, rather than a series of gears. In effect, each cutting disc is self-contained and prepacked with its own set of gears, bearings, and lubricant.

The efficient modular design makes it easy to service. Simply by removing the end panel and one hex nut, the operator can slide individual discs off the cutting bar for repair or replacement. This design also extends the life of the cutting head, especially in hilly conditions.

The 8020 Gator Mower also features a smooth hydraulic lift system for quicker turns and better handling on the run, plus a breakaway frame design that prevents damage from large unseen obstacles. The unit lifts vertically for narrow transport at a width of only 6'9".

The Vermeer Gator Mower is also available in three other models with mowing capabilities of 7-, 8-, and 9-foot widths.

Ciba-Geigy Launches New Logo, Identity

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba-Geigy Corporation, the wholly-owned American subsidiary of the Swiss pharmaceutical, agricultural and industrial company, announced a new logo and corporate identity: Ciba. The move is part of a worldwide program designed to reflect the changing face of Ciba-Geigy.

In 1990, Ciba introduced a strategic business philosophy called "Vision 2000," which outlines the company's balanced commitment to economic growth, social responsibility, and environmental protection. This new identity reflects that commitment, said Emilio (Leo) J. Bontempo, president, Ciba plant protection, and a member of the corporation's board of directors.

An internal design team based its choice on several criteria, including the distinctive typeface of the red and blue logo, the fact that Ciba is easily pronounced internationally, and is currently in use in some operations (Ciba Vision and Ciba Corning Diagnostics). Use of the new logo and the Ciba name will be phased in over the next several months.

"Ciba represents the new face of our company, a more dynamic, open and ambitious character as we look ahead to the next century," said Bontempo. He said this change is part of a series of key decisions made by Ciba management to position the company for growth in the future.

Allowing greater autonomy and responsibility for business decisions at the divisional level is an inherent part of the philosophy, Bontempo said. This change is in place and has allowed Ciba's divisions greater flexibility to address challenges and opportunities. At the same time, the new logo and identity will serve to unite the company's 14 divisions.

Other changes that reflect the new philosophy include:

• Responding to social and environmental concerns by exceeding regulatory standards and meeting strict internal policies. For example, water recovery efforts at one facility reduced waste water by 99 percent.

• More open communication with employees, customers, shareholders, communities where Ciba has operations, and the news media. For instance, in 1992 the company began to release regular earnings and performance statements and will convert to GAP accounting standards in 1993.

• Greater emphasis on Ciba's contributions to society and education, through programs such as "The Chemistry Institute" and "Science Teacher Update Seminars," which support science and chemistry education in secondary schools and colleges.

"This new business philosophy is based on our belief in sustaining long-term growth through a commitment to social and environmental concerns and by being the leader in research, technology and the application of science," said Bontempo.

The legal name for the U.S. company will remain Ciba-Geigy Corporation.

MAGNUM 7120

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM Tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505-cubic-inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM Tractor's powershift puts 18 speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM Tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 2.1 mph for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM Tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area — virtually unobstructed visibility — and more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: The Case IH MAGNUM 7120 Tractor sets new standards for the 150 hp (112 kW) class — and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.

Beef Producers To Hold Annual Meeting

ADDISON, N.Y. — Fred E. Zeiner of Morris, president of the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association (NYBCA), announced final plans for the two-day annual meeting to be held January 23 and 24 at the Corning Hilton Inn in Corning, N.Y.

For the first time, the event is being held on a Saturday and Sunday, to permit the many members who have off-farm employment an opportunity to participate and attend the educational programs.

Zeiner noted that attention to management skills and the bottom line will mark the difference between those who survive in this industry and those who do not. With this in mind, the educational program has been planned to cover such topics as the ideal carcass for today's beef industry, the ideal feeder calf from the feedlot operator's point of view, selection of the proper bull for today's industry, use of alternative feeds for optimal cow herd performance, ideal cow for the beef industry, health issues for New York beef producers, and finally a panel discussion will put it all together.

Dr. Charles McPeake, from the University of Georgia, will be the keynote speaker at the educational program. McPeake is the executive director of the Beef Improvement Federation, the organizing body that works with all segments of the cattle industry to standardize performance selection guidelines for beef cattle. In 1991, changes were made in the New York State bull test program in order to follow the BIF guidelines for central test stations. Prior to working at the University of Georgia, McPeake was the director of the largest bull test in the U.S. — the Oklahoma State University Bull Test Program which tests more than 600 head of potential herd sires annually. McPeake will discuss the selection of herd sires for today's beef industry.

The New York Cattlewomen, with Mrs. Eldora Benson of Potsdam presiding, will hold their annual meeting at the Hilton on Saturday, at 11 a.m. Members of the Cattlewomen will host a wine and cheese reception prior to the annual banquet scheduled for Saturday evening. Following the banquet, an auction will be held to benefit the Cattlewomen's project to provide beef products to homes for abused/battered women in various areas of New York state. They have increased their coverage to forty counties in New York.

A small trade show has been organized and will be in operation both days of the meeting.

The New York Beef Industry Council, with Jerry Reed, executive director in charge, will hold its annual meeting on Saturday at 4 p.m. The NYBCA annual business meeting will be held Sunday at 8:30 a.m. followed by the election of 1993 officers. Slate includes Donald Gray of Springwater for president; Durwood Adams of Ontario, vice president; David Pellett of Canton, secretary; and Charles Boone of Westerlo, treasurer.

Annual business meetings of the New York Charolais Association and the New York Simmental Association will be held at 10 Sunday morning.

The event will conclude on Sunday with the annual awards luncheon, where the selections for Cattleman of the Year, County Extension Agent of the Year, and the Outstanding Youth will be announced

There is a small registration fee. Further information is available from Shirley Brown, Addison, N.Y., (607) 359-3662.

You wanted higher productivity. Our Natural Flow rotary harvesting system puts cleaner, more marketable grain in the bin.

You wanted lower operating costs. Our reliable state-of-the-art-air-cooled diesel engine has a simplified design that allows for hassle-free maintenance, longer life and greater fuel efficiency.

You wanted more operator comfort and greater control. Our ComforTECH™ cab combines an advanced console with fatigue reducing features and improved visibility. You wanted strong support. Every Gleaner is backed by a strong AGCO warranty and dealer servicing.

Check out the rotary you've been asking for at the Gleaner dealers listed here. And ask about flexible AGCO financing.

Youth Must Complete Safety Course

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Youth, 14 or 15 years old, who plan to be employed by a farmer to drive tractor and/or operate farm machinery must complete a safety course.

To successfully complete the courses, youth must attend seven consecutive Monday night meetings from 7 p.m.-9 p.m., demonstrate the ability to safely drive a tractor, and pass a written exam.

The first meeting will be held on Monday, February 1, from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. at the Adams County Extension Office, located two miles west of Gettysburg on Rt. 30 across from Doersom airport. A $5 registration fee covers a personal copy of the instruction manual. A minimum enrollment of 10 is required. Any 13-year-old or older youth are welcome to attend the course.

Topics for the course and meeting places are as follows: February 1 - Safety Is No Accident, Extension Office; February 8 - Maintenance and Safety Checks And Instruments and Controls, Biglerville High School Ag. Room; February 22 - Starting and Stopping Tractors And Tractor Safety on the Farm, Gettysburg High School Ag. Room; March 1 - Tractor Hitches, PTO, and Hydraulics AND Tractor Safety on the Road, Fairfield High School Ag. Room; March 8 - Why Farm Machinery Accidents Occur AND Farm Machinery Accident Situations, Littlestown High School; March 15 - Safety Standards For Agricultural Tractors and Implements AND Farmstead Safety, Bermudian Springs High School Ag. Room; March 22 - Farm Machinery Field Nite by New Oxford High School Ag. Dept. and machinery dealer cooperating. Also, April 3 will be the tractor driving skills test for each participant to demonstrate their ability to safely drive a tractor.

The training course is offered jointly by High School Vo-Ag Departments and the Adams County 4-H Program/Penn State Cooperative Extension. Additional information may be obtained from your high school ag teacher or from county 4-H agent Jared K. Tyson at (717) 334-6271 or (717) 624-4525.

Figures Show Importance Of Industry

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Newly released informaton compiled by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the non-profit trade association working fror the continued progress of the Delmara Peninsula's poultry industry, shows the chicken industry continues to grow, providing more employment and increased economic contributions to the area.

Broiler production last year totaled 548,500,000 birds, up nearly 2.2 percent from 1991, while the number of pounds produced rose more than 4 percent to reach 2.64 billion pounds. Each bird weighed an average of 4.8 pounds, heavier than the national average.

Unlike many industries on the Delmarva Peninsula, the poultry industry increased employment in 1992. Close to 22,000 persons were directly employed in the industry,' while thousands of others had jobs because of the poultry industry's presence. These 22,000 people earned more than $367 million.

The poultry industry creates a built-in market for grain and soybean farmers on Delmarva. Most of the corn, soybeans, and sorghum raised by local farmers is used by the poultry industry. The DPI 1992 figures show that 22.1 million bushels of soybeans, 62.5 million bushels of corn, and 1.33 million bushels of sorghum, with a farm value of $303 million were used for poultry feed.

Processed and ready for market, the 548.5 million broiler chickens were valued at $1.25 billion, an increase of 8.25 percent from the previous year.

"These figures clearly illustrate the significant impact of the poultry industry on the Delmarva economy," said DPI President Larry K. Winslow. "Our industry continues to expand and all indications are this trend will continue. Delmarva is the birthplace of the commercial broiler industry and remains a major producing area, accounting for close to 10 percent of America's broiler chickens."

On-Farm Composting A Featured Topic

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — On-farm composting is a practice that is drawing interest among farmers across the state. Particularly on small and mid-size dairies, composting may be an alternative to spreading manure on frozen ground or construction of expensive, single-purpose manure storage structures.

In addition to its use as a nutrient management strategy, compost has many benefits as a fertilizer and a soil additive. Finally, on farms where excess manure is a problem, selling compost may be a way to export nutrients and add to farm income.

The Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) will feature three workshops on composting at its "Farming for the Future" conference in State College on Feb. 5 and 6.

A workshop titled "Farm Composting Basics" is designed for those new to composting. Led by Penn State cooperative extension agents George Hurd and Leon Ressler, this introductory level workshop will be a "how-to" for farmers wishing to incorporate composting into their operations. It will focus on the biological processes involved and the materials and equipment needed, with examples from farmers now using the process. Hurd and Ressler have set up field days to highlight composting on farms in the state and have much background in this area.

For farmers interested in using municipal wastes as compost material, there will be a workshop titled "Farm Utilization of Urban Organic Materials." This workshop will be led by Guy Temple, area community development extension agent based in Union County. Temple works in six counties to help communities and individuals develop solid waste management plans. He is interested in the ways that farmers can link up with communities to solve waste management problems. Specifically, the workshop will look at the use of leaves and grass clippings as compost materials.

Leon Weber, coordinator of the three composting workshops, notes that county and local governments play a part in determining whether organic materials are used by farmers. Local solid waste collection and transport systems can be set up to favor or discourage farmer involvement. In Lancaster County, for example, a formal plan encourages trash haulers to take organic wastes directly to farmers where they pay a smaller "tipping fee" than they would at the landfill.

Linda Houseal, soil scientist in waste management at the Pennsylvania DER, will provide farmers with a look at regulatory requirements for the use of urban organic wastes. She will talk about what materials can be used and how, touching on other potential materials such as food and paper waste.

Cary Oshins of the Rodale Institute Research Center will discuss a four-county study conducted in southeast Pennsylvania looking at the barriers to farm use of urban wastes and how these barriers can be overcome to make the process more "farmer friendly."

Finally, Bob Breishline, a Bloomsburg area farmer, will talk about composting municipal yard waste and horse manure. He sells his finished product to landscapers.

Coordinator Weber, who works at the Rodale Institute, notes that there is still a lot to be learned about composting including time commitment involved, how it fits into the whole farm operation, labor and equipment requirements and, if marketed, what type of product the consumer wants, where markets are, and what a fair price is. In addition, the issue of tipping fees has yet to be resolved, with some farmers charging a fee and others glad to have the carbon material to mix with their manure.

In the third workshop, "On-Farm Compost: Alternative Systems," Larry Breech, a crop and livestock farmer in the Bloomsburg area, will discuss his use of the Luebke method of composting. The Luebkes are European microbiologists who have learned how to grow better crops by monitoring soil microbes. Breech farms over 500 acres and is a recent state winner of the "10-acre corn club." Breech is interested in compost as a medium for increasing the microbes in his soil. He will discuss his use of microbial sprays, CO^2 monitoring to determine turning frequency, and the use of covers on compost to protect the microorganisms and reduce runoff.

Pro Ag Elects President

MESHOPPEN (Wyoming Co.) — John Pardoe, a dairy farmer from Forksville, has been elected president of the Progessive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag).

Pardoe succeeds Sherry Shedd from Mainsburg as president.

At a reorganization meeting of Pro Ag recently, Dennis Boyanowski, a dairy farmer from Laceyville, was elected to the position of vice president. Boyanowski succeeds Bill Dagostin from Berwick.

Patricia Martz from Delmatia was re-elected as secretary of Pro Ag. Martz and her husband operate a hog and grain farm in Northumberland County.

Louise Rinker from Estella was re-elected as treasurer of Pro Ag. Rinker and her husband live on their family farm in Sullivan County.

Allan Oakes from Susquehanna County, Sherry Shedd from Tioga County, Joseph Davitt from Wayne County, Bill Dagostin from Luzerne County, and Roe Russell from Bradford County, along with the four officers, make up the board of directors of Pro Ag.

Carl Hibbard of Montrose and John Tewksbury of Meshoppen remain on the advisory committee of Pro Ag.

Pardoe said Pro Ag will continue their vigorous efforts to improve prices paid to all farmers.

The same officials claim other agriculture commodities such as pork are being sold at the farm at prices less than the cost of raising the animals.

Pardoe urges everyone to join with Pro Ag to reverse the serious economic plight that is being experienced by area farmers.

Association Appoints Executive Secretary

ADDISON, N.Y. — Fred E. Zeiner of Morris, president of the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association (NYBCA), announced that Carol V. Gillis of Eaton, N.Y., has been selected as executive secretary of the organization.

Her appointment is effective at once, and she will be attending the two-day annual meeting of NYBCA to be held January 23 and 24 at the Corning Hilton Inn.

Gillis is a graduate of Cornell University and has been employed by Cornell Cooperative Extension in Morrisville as a program associate. She has a strong agricultural background, growing up on a combination dairy and beef farm. She has been a 4-H leader, and her educational training with a major in foods and nutrition will strengthen the organization's work in its promotional efforts through the county fairs each year in conjunction with the New York Beef Industry Council.

On a personal level, Gillis is interested in crafts, cross-country skiing, and horseback riding. She is married to Dr. Wayne Gillis, dean of agriculture and natural resources at SUNY, Morrisville. They have three children, Kristine, 17, a senior at Eaton Central School who will attend Cornell next year; David, 15, a sophomore at Eaton Central School; and Kathryn, 13, an eighth grader.

Regional Fruit Growers Meet Feb. 9

WILKES-BARRE (Luzerne Co.) — The Northeast Regional Fruit Growers meeting will be held Tuesday, February 9 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn on Routes 6 and 11 at Chinchilla in Lackawanna County.

Arranged by the Lackawanna County Horticultural Association and Penn State Cooperative Extension, the meeting will be open to all fruit growers.

Speakers on the program include Dr. Robert Crassweller, Dr. James Travis, Dr. Ed Rajotte, and Don Overdorff, all from Penn State University and Joseph Colangelo, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The meeting will provide recertification credits for private applicators of restricted use pesticides if they bring their current permits to the meeting and complete the necessary forms before the meeting starts.

Reservations including a fee for lunch can be made through Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension, 200 Adams Avenue, Scranton, PA 18503, (717) 963-6842. Registration is required by February 5.

Program topics include identifying and correcting nutrient problems in the orchard, decision making for disease control programs, using computers to solve pest control problems, anticipating insect control needs, and a new pesticide disposal program for selected counties.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

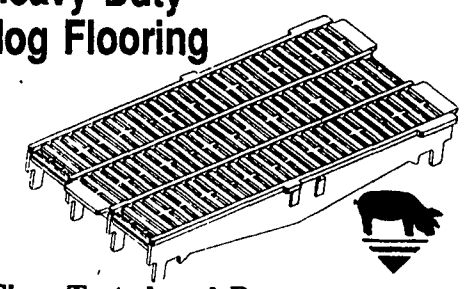
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Faroex has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are bevelled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

I would like to purchase your 609 tobacco. All I want to do is pay the farmer the most money I possibly can and treat him fairly I am not interested in carrying tails or running other buyers down or critizing the auction I know every buyer in Lancaster County is important, especially the auction. I believe every farmer should take some of his tobacco to the auction to help support it. I will not be buying at the acution because I cannot get a volume there. I have the best price in the county at the present time. Call 717-575-4062 to find out where my receiving station will be and other details

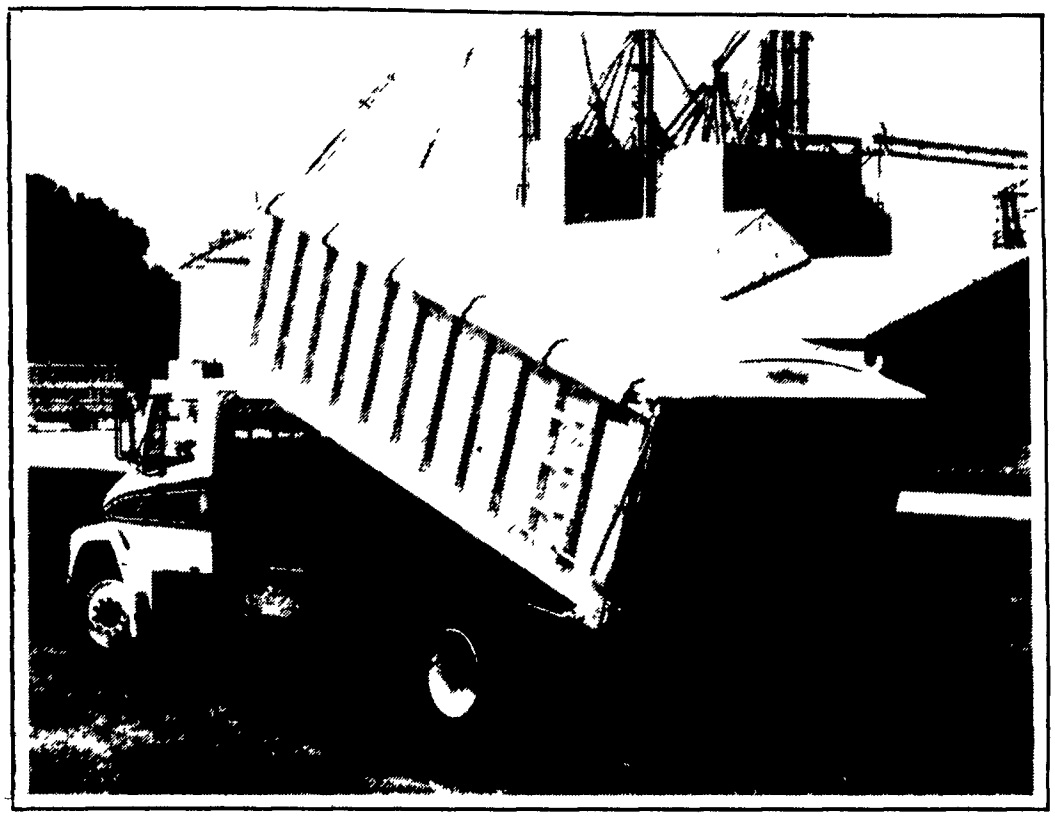
In grain bodies, aluminum makes Sense.



Eby Aluminum Grain Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

If you think that steel is cheaper, think again. We can show you how aluminum actually saves you dollars in the long run.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' and a 48" standard height; optional heights include 54", 60" and 72". A long list of standard features such as tie rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and chute.

When you select your next grain body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

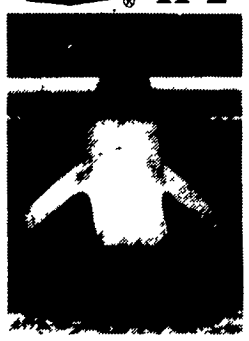
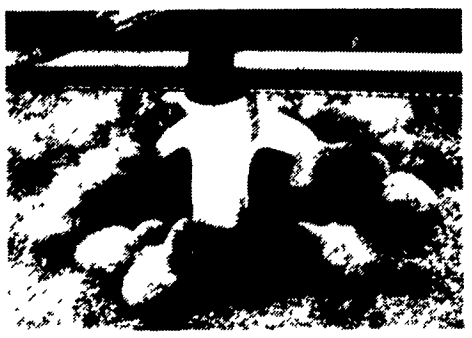
FOR POULTS CHORE-TIME® H-2

A quick turn opens feed chute ready for brooding

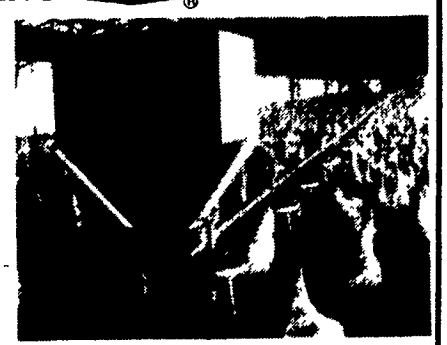


Then feed fills the pans so poults can see it and start eating

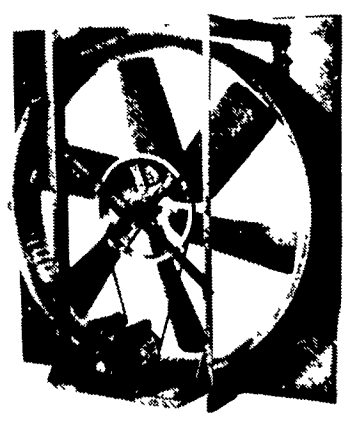
FOR GROWING-FINISHING CHORE-TIME® ATF



Our Model H2 Feeder starts poults fast. In only a few weeks they can leave brooding house.



After brooding, birds go into either growing or finishing house using our big feeders



Coolair 48" FANS

Power is applied through V-belts directly to the propeller with blade load concentrated directly over the bearings to eliminate overhang bearing load.

Report Sets Stage For Water Quality Progress

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Council for Agricultural Science and Technology's (CAST) report titled "Water Quality: Agriculture's Role," is a balanced presentation about agriculture and the nation's water quality and provides a basis for diverse groups to come together and agree on policy measure to address current problems.

"This report should be read by all those on Capitol Hill who will be involved in the reauthorization of the Clean Water Act," said TFI President Gary D. Myers. "The report recognizes the complexity of water quality problems and that solutions must be local and site-specific and must address many factors."

The report, Myers said, properly demonstrates the strides made by agriculture in minimizing environmental impact. Farmers do have incentives and motivation to minimize the impact of their practices on the environment and will continue to improve as research and education adds to the knowledge base used by farmers.

There are two major omissions in the report. The chapter entitled "Risk/Benefit Considerations" contains no discussion of the benefits from agriculture.

Also, policy prescriptions for changing farmer behavior focus on the relationship of government to farmers, leaving out the agrichemical retailer who is the most important source of agronomic information to farmers.

"The fertilizer industry has played an important role in educating farmers about the safe and efficient use of nutrients. It is only through the continuation of this partnership that farmers will be given continued access to high technology solutions to today's water quality problems," said Myers.

Still, said Myers, the report forms the basis for diverse interests to agree on the nature and extent of the water quality problem so that proper solutions can also be discussed.

I would like to purchase your 609 tobacco All I want to do is pay the farmer the most money I possibly can and treat him fair I am not interested in carrying tails or running other buyers down or critizing the auction. I know every buyer in Lancaster County is important, especially the auction I believe every farmer should take some of his tobacco to the auction to help support it. I will not be buying at the acution because I cannot get a volume there. I have the best price in the county at the present time. Service Excellence

A pat on the back for us. Quality service for you.

Our Service Excellence rating from Ford New Holland means a lot to us. And it means a lot for you, too. It means you'll get fast, accurate diagnosis and quality service. It means we've met tough, higher-than-industry standards for service training, tools, record-keeping and performance.
Being a Ford New Holland Service Excellence dealer is hard work. But, we've made the commitment to be the best we can be. And that means service backup that keeps equipment on the job for you.

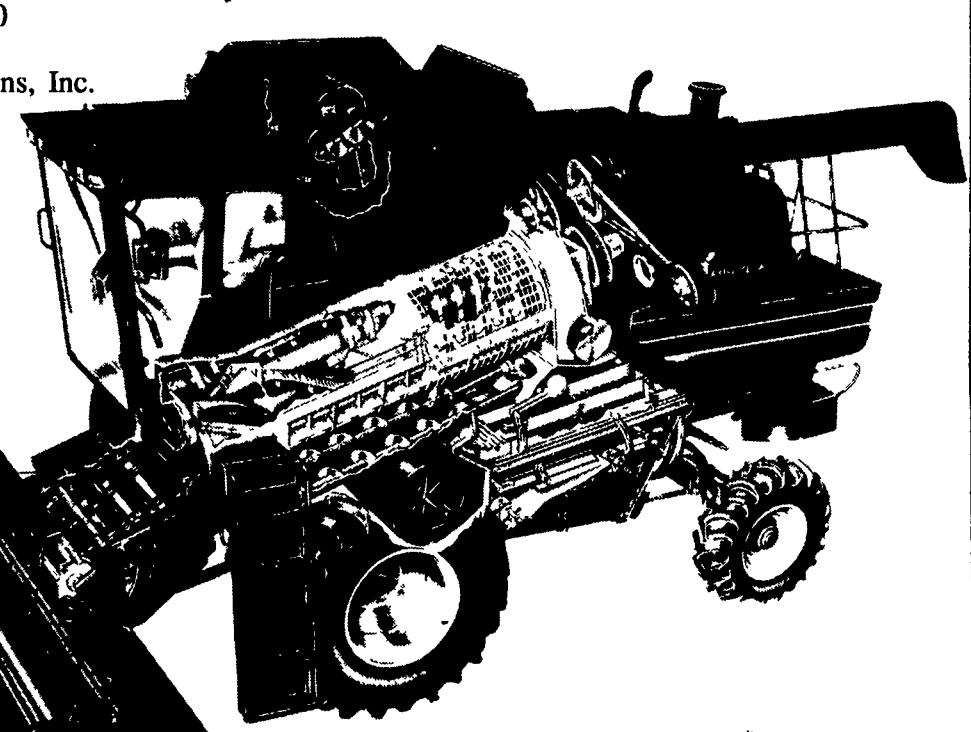
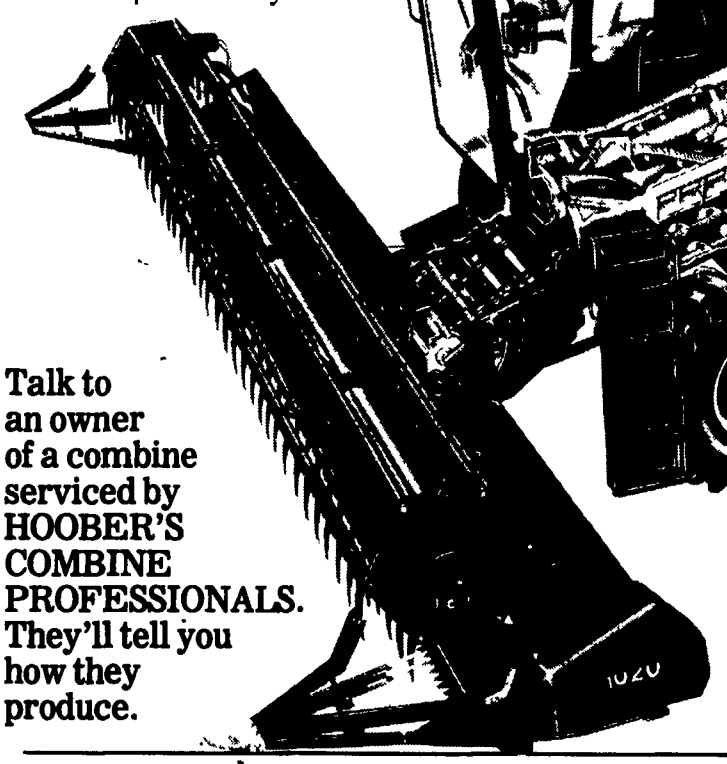
HOOBER PEOPLE MAKE AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES PRODUCE FOR YOU!

By servicing over 200 Axial-Flow Combines, The people at C.B. Hoober & Sons, Inc. know how to make these Combines reach their maximum productivity.





Talk to an owner of a combine serviced by HOOBER'S COMBINE PROFESSIONALS. They'll tell you how they produce.

CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO OWN AN AXIAL-FLOW FROM HOOBER?

The Reason Axial-Flow Combines Are More Productive - THE ROTOR!

The Single Rotor design is SIMPLE!

walker assemblies common to conventional combines. Less moving parts means less maintenance, less downtime.

The Single Rotor Design is HIGHER QUALITY GRAIN

Multiple threshing action of axial-flow reduces kernal damage and holds elevator dockage to a minimum.

The Single Rotor Design is MORE PRODUCTIVITY!

When your crops are ripe and ready to harvest, Axial-Flow allows you to move faster than with a conventional combine. The rotor's large throat means no bottle-necks up front. You'll be able to harvest at top speed for maximum productivity, even on side-hills.

WHY BUY A BELARUS TRACTOR?

We Have A Tractor To Do Your Job.
Industry Sales In America Were Down 10% During 1992

BUT - Belarus Tractor Sales Were Up 26% In 1992.

This is SUCCESS. Because of:

1. Quality Tractors
2. Low Prices
3. Excellent Service
4. Parts Availability

This is what you and other farmers want.
A Tractor that will do YOUR job. We have small Tractors and Giant Tractors.

Please call us and let us help you join the move to Belarus.

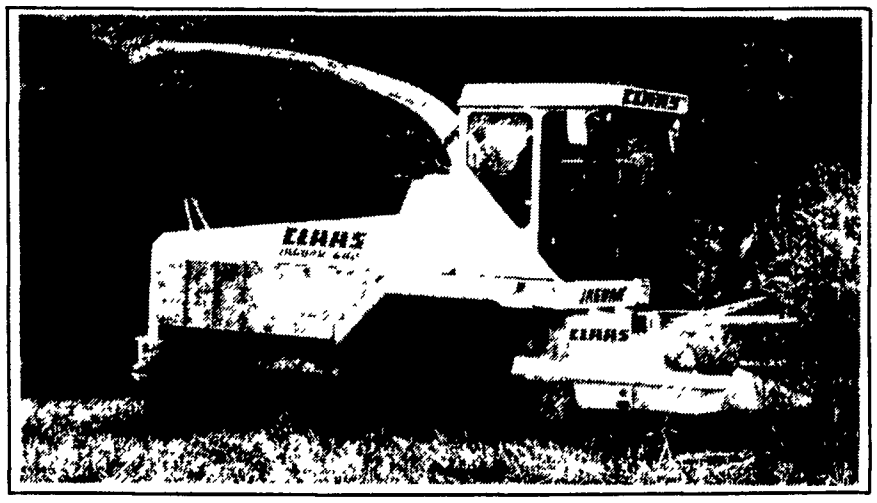
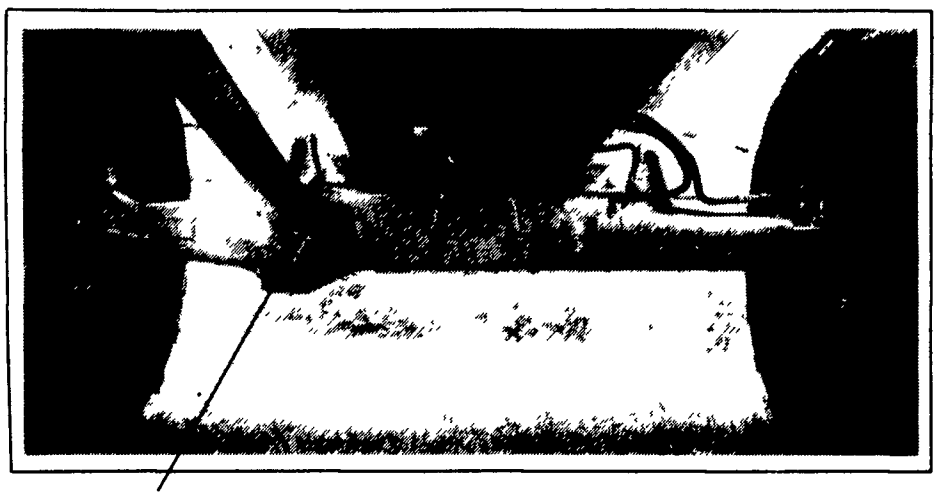
THE CLAAS HARVESTER



TOTAL CONTROL

With CLAAS Autopilot installed you steer automatically along the rows of corn, like a train running on tracks.

POWER AND ENDURANCE



The Claas 4-trac mechanical four wheel drive system is available as an option on all Jaguar self-propelled foragers. It provides all the traction you need to cope with the toughest of harvesting conditions and gives directional stability on hillsides. Each of the four wheels pushes the machine forward, regardless of the ground conditions. The four wheel drivel can be engaged and disengaged on the move.

TURBO POWERED

MF 390T 80-PTO HP

LOW PROFILE- HIGH PTO OUTPUT

- Independent PTO, single or 2-speed
- 12-speed synchromesh transmission
- Hydralock front-wheel drive for total control at all times
- Powerful hydraulics for implements
- 2 and 4-wheel drive

Glides Through All Residue Levels

WHITE BY WHITE NEW IDEA

The New 230 Field Cultivator performs exceptionally well on conservation or conventional tillage acres.

- This is your ideal tillage tool because it does an excellent job on seedbed prep and preplant chemical incorporation In many cases it ll be your one pass tillage tool too
- New 5 bar frame is constructed out of large 4 x4" tubing for extra strength
- "S tines or "C" shanks are spaced farther apart for more residue clearance and less plugging
- Arrangement of shanks eliminates chemical stripping around tires
- Self leveling hitch with mechanical wing control keeps cultivator level front to rear and side to side
- Convenient hand crank depth control adjusts in 1/8" increments
- Choose 14 7 to 41 5 rigid flat or tent fold models
- Ask about competitive financing plans

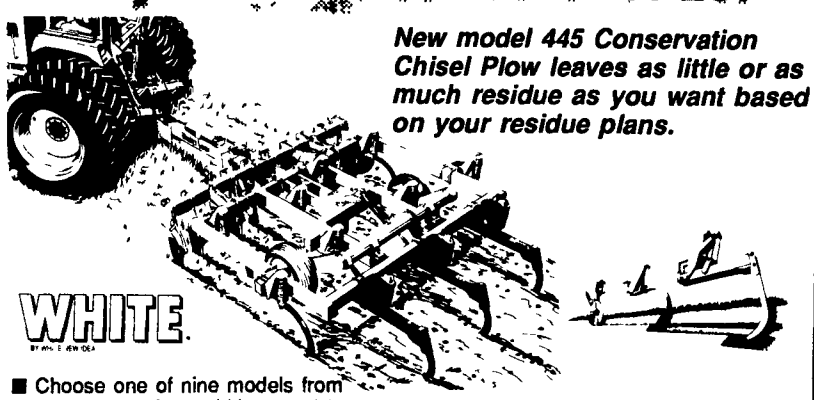
Bury A Little Residue Or A Lot



New model 445 Conservation Chisel Plow leaves as little or as much residue as you want based on your residue plans.

WHITE BY WHITE NEW IDEA

- Choose one of nine models from 7' to 23' working width. (19', 21' and 23' models fold flat).
- Rippled coulters and chisel points at 15" spacing leave more residue.
- Optional deep-till shanks till an extra 4-6" deeper than chisel shanks to reduce compaction problems and rip hardpan.
- Disc coulters and twisted shovels at 12" spacing leave less residue.
- Optional soil leveling bar provides a smoother secondary tillage pass
- Ask your dealer about special low-rate financing.

If Your Silo Needs New Life...

Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

FRESH COWS STALLING OUT???

Now There Is Something You Can Do About It!!!

Purina Freshener Pak Starts Cows Right.

Fresh cows go off of feed for a number of reasons: freshening problems, mastitis, forage changes, too much grain, ketosis and just plain stress. That's why Purina has come out with a product designed with this key problem in mind.

Dairy Freshener Pak is designed to not only stimulate your fresh cow's appetite, but it also helps her maintain a proper immune response.

HERE IS WHY
